HOOVER BOOM IS BEGUN ON WEST COAST

California Delegation Is Likely to Support Commerce Secretary

ILLINOIS FOR LOWDEN

Dawes and Longworth Also Have Good Chances in Republican Ballots

Lincoln, Neb.—(AP)—A Norris-for-President committee of 5,000 in process of organization and the announcement that petition to place the name of United States Senator George Norris on the Republican presidential preference ballot in Nebraska would be filed soon with the secretary of the state were outstanding political developments in the Nebraska were made known Wednesday.

The circulation of petitions for the veteran senator was announced by C. A. Sorenson, Lincoln attorney, and close friend of Senator Norris. He said that "of the possible candidates discussed by the press and public—Hoover, Norris, Watson, Lowden, Longworth and Dawes—Senator Norris, in our opinion, more nearly than any one else, personifies and represents the prevailing sentiment of the middle-west on farm relief, prohibition, tariff reform, federal taxation, monopoly regulation and foreign affairs."

Mr. Sorenson said that reports from the National Capital have it that Wisconsin will instruct its delegation for Norris and that Minnesota, Dakota, Idaho and Oregon may follow.

"It would be poor taste to say the least for Nebraska Republicans to send a delegation pledged to any other candidate than our famous senator," Sorenson commented.

Washington—(AP)—The reaction to the candidacy of some of the men mentioned for President Coolidge's mantle has begun to come in from several states. The first sentiment is not always conclusive, nor is it an indication of how a state may really feel about it, for all elements in politics are not local at the moment.

The "favorite son" states are beginning to show signs of organization and state pride is the ordinary motive which brings out political sentiment. And that is why news from California that plans are being made to send a delegation to the Republican national convention instructed for Hoover is significant.

Most every candidate wants to be sure of his home state. If he is not, the political opposition usually regards it as a weakness and uses it as an argument against nominating such a candidate. Mr. Hoover has considerable strength in the eastern states but has been defeated in California, which has never had a favorite son in the White House.

WAS BORN IN IOWA

As a matter of fact, Mr. Hoover was born in Iowa, so his western connections are politically speaking unobjectionable to those elements in the west which would have voted for Coolidge anyway, and to those others of an independent mind who are Hoover followers anyway.

Information from California, is to the effect that it is being generally assumed Mr. Coolidge will not be a candidate in any sense and that he has been eliminated. It is therefore being predicted that Mr. Hoover will have the California delegation without a contest. A recent poll taken at a non-political club in Los Angeles, composed of representative citizens, showed Hoover 53, Lowden 4, Dawes 2 and Borah 1.

Speaker Longworth was in California recently but reports are that his "wet" views stirred up considerable discussion. Mr. Hoover has not been identified with the prohibition controversy.

In a nutshell therefore, while Dawes and Lowden have some strength in California, neither has sufficient strength to get the state even though the custom of keeping out other "favorite son" states were not practiced.

DAWES MAY GAIN VOTE

As matters stand now, the impression prevails here that former Governor Lowden will have the majority of Illinois delegates and that the friends of Dawes will hope to inherit his following. In this he is eliminated in his bidding. Speaker Longworth is an old friendly terms with most of the influential leaders in Ohio, so that he will have a good chance to get that delegation.

As for New York, unless Mr. Hughes steps in again with a firm refusal to accept a nomination the Empire state will be instructed for him. New Jersey will be for Coolidge. Some of the western states, like Kansas, will have favorite son candidates, as Senator Capper probably will have that delegation. But the number of favorite sons even at this early date would appear to be few.

The Republican race will be between Coolidge, Hoover, Hughes, Lowden, Dawes and Longworth, with the chances of the last named to a large extent dependent on the possibility of compromise at the end of a long deadlock.

BOOTLEGGERS WILL BE CATALOGUED IN "ROGUES' GALLERY"

Washington—(AP)—Flagrant prohibition violators in the national capital are to be placed in the police "rogues' gallery." The finger printing and photographing of persons arrested for major liquor charges will add the police in investigations of other crimes and will act as a deterrent to other prohibition violators, the authorities believe.

Explaining an order Tuesday for the first time, Major Edwin Hesse, superintendent said, "rum runners often graduate into other types of criminals" and the finger print and photographic record would facilitate the police greatly in their investigations and also will identify old criminals. He also believes the ordeal of being "mugged" would frighten many would-be rum runners from participation in liquor traffic.

NICARAGUA QUIETING DOWN, ADMIRAL SAYS

Conditions Steadily Improving in Southern Country, Sellers Reports

Washington—(AP)—Although American marines have again been ambushed by Nicaraguan bandits, Rear Admiral Sellers, in charge of naval forces, in a report to the navy department declared conditions in Nicaragua are steadily improving.

General Sandino, former liberal military leader whose forces were defeated last month by marines at Ocotal, the admiral added, is believed to be still in hiding in Nicaragua with a small band of men.

In the mountains of Segovia in northern Nicaragua, General Moncada, during an airplane survey, recently discovered several small bands the report said.

The ambush occurred on Aug. 16 and two of the bandits were killed, the marines suffering no casualties. Thirty bandits participated in the attack. The marines consisted of a small detachment under command of First Sergeant Bruce and were accompanied by an American mine operator named Alexander and a unit of the native constabulary, traveling between Jicaral and Murra.

The bandits reported by Moncada are said to be composed of and led by criminals.

While the president seemed more interested in fishing, Mrs. Coolidge and John were drinking in the sights of Yellowstone to the fullest extent.

San Francisco—(AP)—A woman and six men—seven days lost at sea—two more days of search.

Hope for the missing Dole race fliers, glimmered wanly on the seventh day of silence.

In the face of discouraging reports from the 42 submarines, destroyers, airplane carriers and their searching "NII-NII-NII" periodically by radio, came word that 15 additional destroyers and one light cruiser under command of Rear Admiral Luke McNamee were ordered to join the search.

Rear Admiral Richard H. Jackson, commander of the Pacific fleet ordered these boats into action with the idea of scrutinizing uncovered sea area.

SEARCH NEARLY HOPELESS

Seven destroyers, deployed across a 21 mile front are continuing the great circle steamer line between San Francisco and Honolulu.

A story that the green flare was seen to rise and die down about 8,000 feet up the rugged slopes of Mauna Kea, in the island of Hawaii, Sunday night has thus far failed to result in definite word that any of the fliers had been found.

Three of the army's airplanes which left Luke field, Honolulu, to fly over the mountain in the hope of finding a fallen plane are expected to report the result of their search Wednesday.

EXPLOSION WRECKS CHICAGO BUILDING

Firemen Fail to Find Body Reported in Ruins After Flames Raze Structure

Chicago—(AP)—A terrific explosion attributed to gas from a leaky pipe wrecked three stories in a one story building on Taylor-st in a west side neighborhood early Wednesday, and left three dead.

Firemen found no trace of a body in the ruins, although a man in the neighborhood said the proprietor of a drygoods store had been asleep in the place. A grocer and the owner of a bakery in the building said they could not account for the blast.

Scores of persons in the neighborhood were shaken from their beds as the fire spread to a three story building to the east of the shattered building, and another three story building also was damaged.

Early theories that a dynamite bomb set by beer gangsters or that a still had exploded were abandoned when firemen found no evidence to support them.

Dried Clay on Shoes Clew in Slaying of Illinois Woman 3 Weeks Ago

Chicago—(AP)—A charge of matricide Wednesday pursued 21-year-old Harry Hill around Chicago as plans went ahead in his home town of Streator, Ill., for the funeral of the mother he is accused of having slain.

Young Hill "the Fish" they called him—was known to have been in Chicago and spent his habits for which his mother was said to have upbraided him. He was known to have been in Chicago Monday night, spending the evening at a friend's home. From there he had disappeared.

Dr. H. C. Hill, a well-to-do Streator oculist was responsible for discovery of the body of the wife, from whom he had been estranged for seven years. Learning that Mrs. Hill had not been seen since Aug. 4, he asked officers to accompany him to the home in which she and her son lived.

FIND BODY IN CELLAR

In the basement they came upon newly laid bricks. Digging they came upon the body of the 35-year-old woman. It was clad only in undergarments, and there were two bullet holes in the head. Mrs. Hill had been dead about three weeks.

On the back porch was found a pair of young Hill's shoes and there was dried clay, such as that in which Mrs. Hill's body was found.

As a motive for the slaying officers pointed to several gambling obligations Hill had contracted. They said that since Aug. 4, he had been living at a Streator hotel, explaining that his mother was away on vacation. A check drawn by Hill, bearing his mother's account according to his explanation of her absence.

Mrs. Hill loved a retired life, following her separation from her husband.

Andrus, who performed the autopsy, testified that death was caused by a fracture of the skull, apparently caused by blows from a blunt instrument.

Paynter testified that Pero and Moore stole a ride on the passenger train headed for Odanah. E. J. FIRE DRIVES TURKS TO TAKE REFUGE IN HISTORIC CEMETERY

Constantinople—(AP)—A huge fire in Scutari, the Asiatic suburb of Constantinople famous in Byzantine history as "Chalcedon," "the city of the blind," destroyed about 400 old wooden latticed houses and drove 2,000 refugees to the famous Scutari cemetery, celebrated for its cypresses, where they encamped.

The refugees took shelter amid fallen tombstones and were supplied bread and water at the order of President Mustafa Kemal, who watched old Turkey burn from the Dolma Bagiche palace on the opposite shore.

New Turkey's modern fire engines could not combat with a high northerly wind fanning the tinderlike houses. Military caterpillar tractors were called out to roll out and smother the flames. The loss was estimated at 1,000,000 liras.

The origin of the fire was attributed to an old woman trying to burn out woodworms from the lattices in the window of her shack.

JONES HAS BATTLE TO WIN 1ST ROUND

Von Elm Also Qualifies After Stiff Tilt; Sixty Loses to Quimet

Minneapolis—(AP)—Bobby Jones had to fight hard to win his first round match Wednesday and survive for the title struggle in the National Amateur Golf championship as George Von Elm did to survive the qualifying round Tuesday. He lost the victory that got him a 67 Tuesday, and when he slumped to a 73, taking 40 on the last nine while Maurice McCarthy of New York, was scoring better until the last three holes. He had 68 holes for his Bostonian opponent. The Atlantic was one down at the turn and after halving the next six holes was still one down and three to go. There McCarthy faltered in his giant-killing expedition and took one above par on each of the next three holes while Bobby settled down to perfect golf and won all three to finish two up.

While this terrific battle for life was on, Von Elm handily won from John McKinlay of Chicago, scoring close to par and taking 35 for the title, nine as compared to Bobby's 40. Other favorites came through all right, although Roman MacKenzie of Washington, had to go 19 holes to defeat George Thomas of Chicago. Chick Evans did not get his match with Ellsworth Augustus in hand until near the end, but by shooting 3 under par for the next eight holes won 2-1.

Eddie Field of St. Louis had no trouble in eliminating Dexter Cummings of Chicago, 6 and 5, as he scored within two strokes of par for the 13 holes played. Francis Quimet had an equally easy time with Billy Sixty of Milwaukee as the Bostonian took one stroke off par on the out nine and won, 6 and 5, when the Milwaukeean faded near the close.

Several European Mobs Dispersed by Heavy Rain Storms

New York—(AP)—Disturbances at London and Paris, a demonstration before the American consulate at Geneva, and the burning of an American flag at Johannesburg, South Africa were some of the developments in foreign countries as an aftermath of the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti. After a memorial meeting in Hyde park, London, Tuesday night the demonstrators began to march in defiance of police orders in the direction of the American embassy, the police charged them.

The International Class War Prisoners organization is making plans to call a "national memorial day" next Sunday in all parts of England.

MARCH ON EMBASSY

The disturbance in Paris occurred when manifestants made ready in the Place d'Alma to march on the American embassy in response to a communist invitation.

In Geneva a large crowd gathered before the American consulate Tuesday night to protest against the death of the two men. Here, too, a severe thunderstorm and a heavy rain sent the manifestants scurrying for cover.

An American flag was burned at Johannesburg on the steps of the town hall in the course of a demonstration by Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers. One of the speakers called for a boycott of American goods.

A boycott of American wares was also being suggested in Finland by the executive of the Trade Union Congress. In Amsterdam a stone was thrown through a window of the American consulate, but no one was injured.

BITTER TOWARD LEGION

Paris—(AP)—French radicals, aroused by the execution of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, expressed indignation at the death of the two men. In Amsterdam a stone was thrown through a window of the American consulate, but no one was injured.

DISPERSE PARIS MOBS

Police reserves forced the manifestants from their meeting places earlier in the night. They regrouped at various points well away from where the police were concentrated, notably on the Boulevard Sebastopol, in the Montmartre section. They were augmented, police say, by a large proportion of apaches and underworld characters.

On the way they smashed store windows scattering or pillaging the contents of shops. At Sebastopol, in the absence of the police, they had everything their own way for a time. They wrecked the largest grocery store, then raised a barricade of carts and tables and used canned goods as missiles with which to pelt the police who rushed in in automobile trucks. The patrolmen soon stormed the barricade and routed the defenders who fled smashing more store fronts as they ran.

TRAMPLE ON FLOWERS

Wrecked by the police, the mob lied itself to the Arc de Triomphe where it was joined by many who had been vainly trying to get to the embassy. At the arch, the site of the tomb of the unknown soldier, the newspapers report flowers were trampled upon.

After the mob left this locality, the Lecho de Paris says the flowers were replaced on the tomb by an American who knelt and prayed.

Again scattered by the police, the crowds proceeded down the Champs Elysees, smashing windows of one or

Old Kimberly-Clark Building Will Be Torn Down to Make Way for Street

Wrecking of the old office of the Kimberly-Clark Paper company at the foot of Jackman-still has started this week by the street department. The building is being removed to make way for the new street, which will eliminate two immovable railroad crossings.

The Kimberly-Clark company decided the property to the city and as compensation the city will pay the cost of the new road. The company also gave the building to the city and the salvaged lumber will be used by the street department. All brick salvaged from the building will be used for filling in several places where the new road is to be constructed across lowlands.

The road will run along the south side of the railroad tracks at the foot of Jackman-still, extending them at one point and then recrossing them a short distance further on.

Jackman-still from Prospect-ave to the foot of the hill is to be paved. The contract was awarded the Wilson Construction company of Appleton and work is expected to start as soon as the old building has been wrecked. It is hoped to have the street open to traffic within a month or six weeks. This street is used by trucks going to and from the mills located on W. Water-st.

Clafin Boosts Pelican Lake As Muskie Habitat

BY B. A. CLAFIN
After all, some of the oldest fishing localities prove best in the long run. It is not an easy matter to find new water, that is, new to the angler. The constant improvement of our roads has nearly eliminated that possibility.

We are gradually giving up the longings to get into less frequented territories.

One of our oldest fishing resorts is today one of the very best. I refer to Pelican Lake. This fine body of water is about eight miles long and three wide. It has the proper connections with outside waters to insure a good supply of fish at all times. Of course, during dog-days the fishing is not the best in any waters but

COMMUNITY BUILDERS POSTPONE CAMPAIGN

Publicity Committee Delays Drive Until Arrival of Window Transfers

Postponement of the actual campaign of the Appleton Community Builders until early in October was planned Tuesday-morning at a meeting of the publicity and convention committee of the chamber of commerce at the chamber office. The decision to postpone the drive was made because the window transfers for subscribers will not be ready before October and the committee desires to distribute them during the campaign.

More than half of the goal of $5,000 already has been subscribed. It was reported. This second letters to prospects, who have not yet replied, will be sent out within a few days.

Several sub-committee chairmen have been appointed to care for the special details. They are to choose their own committees. All the sub-committee chairmen are members of the publicity and convention group. The appointments were P. G. Moyle, direct by mail activities; H. B. Hallett, billboard activities; Dr. H. K. Isen, newspaper activities; Dr. H. K. Pratt, finance; Walter Hughes, solicitation.

Orders were placed for 5,000 seal stickers of the same design as the window transfer, for use on envelopes and packages. The stickers will be 1 1/2 inches in diameter. The committee also authorized the purchase of 1,000 transfers.

FALL GYMNASIUM CLASS IS OPENED AT Y. M. C. A.

For the first time in the history of the local Y. M. C. A., a fall gymnasium class has been started. More than a week before the regular schedule opens, according to association officials.

Usually the classes for men and boys open during the first week of September, after Labor-day, but one men's class was started Wednesday because of a large demand for it. Many local businessmen urged A. P. Jensen, physical director, to start a volleyball group and as a result the class was opened Wednesday noon. A large enrollment is expected, though the group probably will meet only once a week, on Wednesday, until regular classes are started.

40,000 CHILDREN USE PLAYGROUNDS IN SUMMER SEASON

Shields Reports Expenditure of $1,200 During Ten-week
Period

Appleton's playgrounds were used by 40,000 girls and boys during the past season, according to the annual report of Joseph R. Shields, city playground director. In the ten-week period, in which the five grounds were in use $1,200 was expended or three cents a week for each person using the grounds. Of the sum, $1,000 was used for salaries and $200 for equipment. Much equipment was borrowed from the high and grade schools, whose grounds were used for play and this lowered equipment expenses about one-half, Mr. Shields reported.

The ten junior directors who finished the play season at the five grounds were: Orville Strutz, Thomas Ryan, Walter Moore, Melvin Heinritz and Earl Meinberg and the Misses Florence Kahn, Helen Gilman, Lydia Becker, Ora Zuehlke and Katherine Small. The grounds were open daily, except Saturday and Sunday, from 1:30 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and from 6 o'clock to dark. On Saturday they were open from 10 to 12 o'clock in the morning.

Equipment in use was: sandboxes and sand for the younger children, volleyballs and nets, indoor baseballs, bats, horseshoes, basketballs, soccer balls, jacks, rubber balls, croquet sets, footballs, jumping standards and pits. Children were entertained by story hours, sandcraft, child games, races, team games, jacks and cutting pictures from papers. The junior, intermediate and senior boys and girls had individual and team play. Kickball, softball, volleyball and horseshoe leagues; and croquet and horseshoe tournaments by classes.

SIXTH WARD WINS
In softball the Sixth ward seniors and the Third ward juniors and intermediates won the boys' championships and the Third ward girls took the title for their sex. The Sixth ward girls won the volleyball title. The First ward boys double team won the horseshoe championship. Other wards represented in the leagues and tournaments were the Fourth and Fifth. Great interest was stirred up in the leagues and tournaments because of the ward spirit and rivalry, Mr. Shields said.

Other parts of the program included bicycle races for juniors and intermediates; swimming tournaments, for both boys and girls, which were won by the Third ward teams; ward hikes every two weeks and occasional all-city hikes. John W. Pugh, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., led the all-city hikes and taught the hikes' scoutcraft.

Four socials were held at the Third, Sixth, Fifth and First ward grounds in the last two weeks with an attendance of from 250 to 300 each evening. At the first social at the Third ward grounds, a member of the school board who attended said, "The city should certainly take over the playground proposition, it's a great thing. Where would all these boys and girls be tonight if not here?"

Emblems were provided for winners in various boys' events.

OFFERS SUGGESTIONS

In concluding his report Mr. Shields offered several suggestions for next year in case the city takes over the work. He said that the play director should be appointed much earlier so that he could have time to plan the summer's program. This time also could be used to order medals, emblems and pins for the boys and girls, provide athletic blanks and secure books on airplane and scooter building.

Assistant directors should be paid more, so that they could afford to work on the grounds all day. In this way the grounds could be opened both morning and afternoon. Every bit of available space at each grounds should be used and this also will have to be worked out by previous planning such as can be done with the director appointed earlier in the year.

A sum of $3,000 is sufficient to place the work on a sound basis next year, with its start of this year, Mr. Shields believes. Some of the equipment is in poor shape because of an entire summer of use and it will have to be replaced.

INDIANS OPPOSING SAW INSTALLATION

Congressman Says It Is Against Best Interests of Those on Reservation

Efforts to prevent the installation of a second band saw at the mill at the Menominee Indian reservation are being made by the Indians and others interested including the Hon. George J. Schneider, congressman from the Ninth district. Mr. Schneider has sent a telegram to the department of Indian affairs asking that an order be issued preventing installation of the saw "as it is against the interests of the Indians on the reservation."

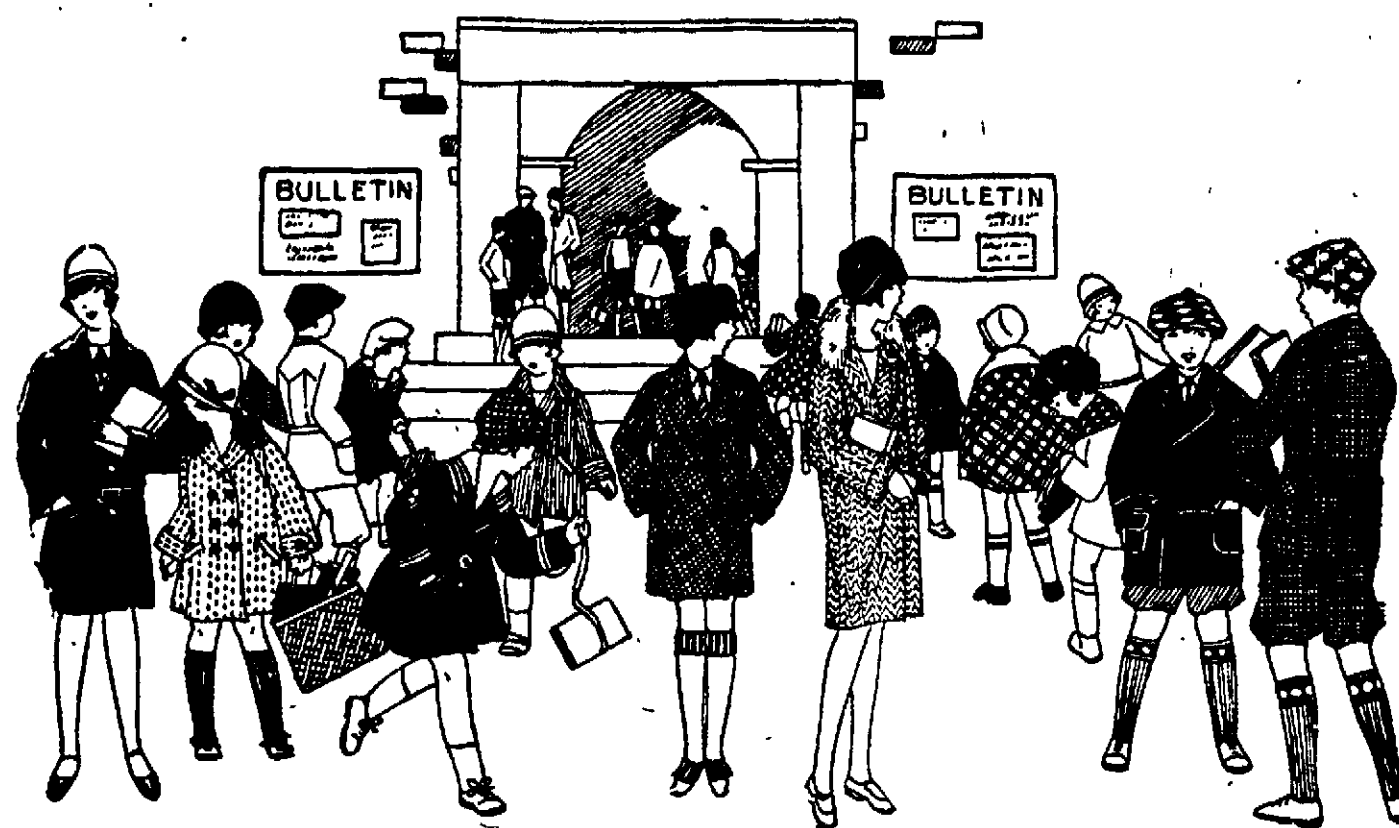

Two years ago when the new mill was built the department proposed the installation of a two band saw. Because of the unanimous opposition of the Indians and others only one was put in. The question was based on the fact that a maximum of 20,000,000 feet of timber may be cut on the reservation each year according to law. One saw could handle this output. It was manifested, by having it operated the year round. A smaller crew of men would thus be employed the year round. By having two saws, a larger crew would be required for a shorter time, and many of these would necessarily be white men, it was said. It would cause idleness of a large number of Indians a large part of the year.

The department now is letting bids for the additional band saw against and over the protestations of the Indians, Mr. Schneider said.

VANISHING PUBLIC SYMPATHY

Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals, in whose behalf there has been world-wide agitation, have paid with their lives for the murder of which they were convicted six years ago. Their doom was sealed when the Massachusetts supreme court decided that it could find no grounds on which to grant a new trial. While the supposition is that the two Italians were given a fair trial, still the charges of prejudice against the trial judge were substantial and seemed to be generally accepted as valid. To what extent his attitude jeopardized the rights of the defendants no one can say, but nevertheless it was unjust and caused the case to be dragged through the courts for six years.

As was feared the supreme court took too technical a view of its powers and duties and refused to let human factors enter. We still think that even after the court ruled adversely, Governor Fuller would have been justified in commuting the sentences to life imprisonment and that clemency would not have lowered the dignity of the state of Massachusetts or weakened the respect for law and order.

Perhaps the governor refused to take this step because of the widespread radical demonstrations. He no doubt felt that by commuting the sentences he would have been put into the position of making concessions to the radicals and communists. We hope the radicals by this time realize that their demonstrations did almost as much to send Sacco and Vanzetti to the electric chair as the evidence presented in the trial court. The American courts and people have no patience with mob violence and the tactics of the Sacco and Vanzetti followers in killing innocent people during their demonstrations of protest, alienated public opinion in this country. Virtually all sympathy for the condemned men vanished when these demonstrations resulted in bloodshed and what little chance the defense attorneys had of swinging the courts and public opinion around to the view that the men should have a new trial, was swept away in these anarchistic riots.

AN IMPROPER DECISION

When the Interstate Commerce commission granted a reduction on coal of 20 cents a ton in the case of railroads serving the northern mines and denied a similar reduction in the case of southern railroads, it committed a grave mistake and one that is bound to bring upon it much criticism and to cast upon all decisions of the commission the shadow of the unfairness displayed in this one. It is easy to understand and sympathize with Professor G. W. Dyer of Vanderbilt university, who has protested the decision as "deliberately penalizing the superior efficiency of the southern coal mines."

"The basis of this strange discrimination," Dr. Dyer maintains, "is that southern coal mines can produce coal more cheaply than the northern mines and that hence southern industry must be penalized. This grossly violates our whole American theory of free competition."

The function of government in its relation to business should never be other than that of referee, but by granting a rate reduction on coal of twenty cents a ton in the case of roads serving the northern mines the Interstate Commerce commission has stepped beyond the sidelines and is now taking part in a sectional and economic rivalry.

No theory could really be more hazardous to American freedom and more deadly to American ideas of fair play than the apparent use of the federal government arbitrarily to penalize industries in one section of the country in the interest of industries in another section.

It is but the indication of the arrogation of excessive power by an alarmingly bureaucratic form of government. Somehow the federal tendency toward dictatorship must be checked.

CHURCH NEWS

Dr. John T. Bradner Smith of Chicago is head of secular press publicity for the world service commission of the Methodist church. He has recently made some remarks upon church news worth considering.

"Church people," he admonishes, "who criticize the papers must find less fault and help create a better moral tone by supplying any real news item of church activities, more church news, less propaganda, more of what the church is doing that is worth while to humanity, and less news of quarrels and disputes in churches. The church must cease to give occasion for sensationalism and do something for God and humanity."

By the natural effect of contrast bad news about churches is the unexpected, and of course the unexpected is "good" news. The same is true of colleges, ancient and worthy business institutions, respected professions, and the government. The better the aim and the higher the reputation, the worse will be the damage when a hand slips. And the greater the story.

Fortunately the truth of this point that bad news about good people is good news does not apply in reverse—that is, good news about good people is often of interest, and not merely routine. The fact that a professor makes a research discovery of use to the world, that a preacher delivers a strong sermon, that a banker puts his business talent to the direction of a charity fund campaign—these also draw the public's attention. The more news of good works a church makes for itself—and the less, incidentally, of thoughtless triviality it pours on the editor's desk—the greater is the resistance piled up in readers' minds against snap impressions from passing sensational occurrences within the church, and the less danger of harmful and untrue generalizations.

Newspapers take no pleasure in distortion. They go out of their way, in most cases, to get the better side of the church into the picture along with the un-Christian squabbles and the trials of black sheep. They print more church news than is really news—and do it gladly.

WELCOMING A CELEBRITY

The famous "What Price Glory" now has a very real application in New York city as the city government totals up the expense connected with the welcome of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh recently. The total cost of this celebration, described as one of the greatest in the history of the city, ran above $50,000 it is announced, in addition to various features not paid for by the city and which were donated by various societies and private individuals. Thus it becomes apparent that fame has its drawbacks, even to those who like to render some recognition to a celebrity.

The amount New York spent is represented in grandstands, dinners, hotel accommodations, flowers, floats, costumes, tickets, invitations and many other items of lesser importance. The illuminated scroll which the city of New York presented to Col. Lindbergh cost $900 alone. But no matter what the expense was the celebration to Col. Lindbergh was worth every cent spent on it. Combining the cost of this celebration with the cost of other recreations, such as that to Commander Byrd and to the president of Cuba and other notables, it is easy to see that the city of New York has a stupendous entertainment bill to foot this year. And, in a smaller degree, every other city has a similar problem, only New York, as the eastern gateway to the United States, has to bear the brunt of the reception of foreign and domestic notables.

There will come a time, no doubt, when the rigid necessities of enforced economy will curtail these expenditures but we hope not within our time. Life has become so matter of fact and in many ways so monotonous that receptions and celebrations provide a valuable safety valve and an attractive public spectacle.

NEVER MIND THE WATER IN THE LUNGS

One reader writes: I was interested in your article on resuscitation from drowning by the Schaefer prone pressure method, but I notice it does not mention how to get water out of the victim's lungs. Does the Schaefer treatment do this?

Another writes: I bet you could not resuscitate a person after immersion in water. Otherwise you would not be so backward in telling how to do it. Referring us to a Boy Scout is just passing the buck. Finish your job and tell us how to do it. The first reader's query reminds me that I am not so good a teacher as I'd like to be, and the other reader's query reminds me that a mere contributor like myself is always at the mercy of an army of proofreaders, linotypers, monotypers, editors and publishers. For instance, the other day I wrote something about the advisability of having a physician whose patients are his only advertisement and one inspired printer man to read a physician and whose parents are his only advertisement. I have a small volume of such jokes collected from the stuff (and nonsense) I have been held responsible for these 20 years. Most of the quips are just funny; but some of them are mean and maybe that's one reason why I seem so sarcastic sometimes.

Tuesday, July 19, I published Schaefer's own description of the prone pressure method of artificial respiration, and at great pains and effort I added a picture to show the simple method. If readers did not notice this, I am sorry, but it was the very best I could do to spread the knowledge of resuscitation. I still think and recommend that any man, woman or child who is not prepared to resuscitate had better ask any qualified Boy Scout or Girl Scout to demonstrate the method.

A week or two following my description and picture of the method I saw in a metropolitan rotogravure section four photographs of a man applying the Schaefer method, the finest illustration of this first aid maneuver I have ever seen published. But, alas, the first of these four pictures was all wrong—the life guard or swimming instructor demonstrating the method did not understand the physiological principles of prone pressure artificial respiration and he posed for the first picture in the fatal act of "draining water from the victim." Having wasted several precious seconds at that—perhaps sacrificing the precious spark of life—he then lets the victim down into the prone posture and commences the artificial respiration. The life guard's well meant but fatally erratic ideas run through all four of these otherwise perfect illustrations, for in every picture, except the first, he has the victim's hand under the face to lift the victim's nose and mouth up from the ground.

The prone posture itself will drain any water or other fluid from the chest. If such water or fluid can be drained. That is, it will do so if the operator does not make the mistake this life guard or swimming instructor made in his demonstration. Place the victim prone (on his belly) on the ground or the ground or a NUNILLODU, bokloovvuvvug, if floor and let the victim's hands rest palmdown on the ground or floor either side of the head, but turn the victim's head toward one side so that the entrance of air through the nose will not be obstructed. In this posture the mouth is lower than the lungs and hence gravity alone drains the chest, so that the preliminary effort to "get the water out of the lungs" is a fatal waste of time at the best. Lose not one second in beginning resuscitation when a victim is rescued from his water.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Contemplating Matrimony

Kindly let me have your advice about young people getting married. (L. P. W.)

Answer—I approve of it, and the important thing is to make sure you are marrying a man and a woman respectively. It's hard to tell from your noncommittal signature which you ought to marry, but anyway here's my blessing.

Heat for Bellarhe

Which is the better for bellarhe, a hot water bag or bear oil. Please print my inquiry as it causes me great discomfort and am losing my hair rapidly. (R. Z.)

Answer—Heat, moist or dry, is usually better for ache, cramp, or colic. Bear grease formerly enjoyed a great vogue for slicking the hair.

Let's Give the Lad a Rest

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

A SOURCE BOOK FOR DETECTIVE STORIES

You would hardly look for detective story plots in the autobiography of a scientist; you would expect to find chapters filled with technical discussions, or interest only to other scientists. But it is just this, that makes reading so great an adventure—you are always stumbling upon the most surprising things.

Anyone who has an ambition to write detective novels could do no better, it seems to me, than read Chapter IX of "A Doctor's Memories," by Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, for many years dean of the medical school of the University of Michigan. There are enough detective stories plotted in that chapter to keep a fairly industrious writer busy for many years. And the good part of it is that they are all taken from life and are not doctored up.

Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, Jr. in 1916, told me that his father was in one respect like Woodrow Wilson, almost passionately fond of reading detective stories. The younger Dr. Vaughan died a year or two later in France and did not live to read his father's charming book of memories, or he might have added that in addition to being addicted to the reading of detective stories his father was an actor in more real life detective plots than falls to the lot of most men.

The chapter in "A Doctor's Memories" that could easily qualify as a source book for detective novels is headed "Experiences As a Medical Expert," which gives a hint of how the well known dean of the medical school had the opportunity to get mixed up in so many murder cases. Often when some one was found dead and suspicion pointed to the administration of poison, Dr. Vaughan was applied to either by the prosecution or the defense to test the contents of the stomach or the liver or the brain for the traces of poison. His reputation as a medical expert was such that calls came from far distant lands. It was his testimony that frequently convicted a murderer or set free an innocent person.

He says frankly that he enjoyed being on the witness stand in murder cases. Which in part probably accounts for his being employed in this capacity so often. There may have been many others just as competent to examine the stomach or the liver of a murdered person, but Dr. Vaughan, in addition to being a true and conscientious scientist, was an unusually good witness. He is extremely human in addition to being scientifically learned.

That is the key charm of the book as a whole, not merely of the chapter under discussion. "A Doctor's Memories" in a book that tells the famous story of the career of a very human personality. What for instance could be more surprising than to learn that a great scientist, the head of a medical school, the friend of scientists the world over, should also be an alderman in a little Michigan city and should take his work on that board seriously? Yet that was the case with Dr. Vaughan. He served as alderman of Ann Arbor for many years and he does not speak of his experience in this line in any time of condescension. What novelist writing the life story of a scientist—Sir

clair Lewis, for instance in "Arrow-smith"—would ever think of making his scientist an alderman? Unless he was a very great novelist he would never think of that—another proof of how very surprising real life may be.

Returning to the detective story chapter, there is an opportunity here for some greater Conan Doyle for a new kind of detective story—one in which the drama shall consist not so much in the actual killing of the victim or the unraveling of the criminal's motives, as in the tracing of the poison, the pains taken to conceal it and the greater pains taken by the scientist to reveal it. In other words, a contest between science and the criminal. Dr. Vaughan clearly indicates the line such a story could take. Even in outline form the contest between science and the criminal is thrilling.

The incidents narrated in the detective story chapter are merely samples. The author undoubtedly has numerous others up his sleeve, for which there was no space in this book.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Some years ago the word "dyspepsia" was one to conjure with. It was the great American disease, now transferred into the possibly more scientific term "nervous indigestion."

In a recent consideration of this condition, Dr. W. C. Alvarez points out there is a tendency to overdo the use of bran and that nowadays one of the simplest ways of helping dyspeptic patients is to take away their bran mush and muffins. Bran is used because of its indigestibility, and is prescribed for persons who need roughage in the diet. People with irritable digestive organs, however, are likely to be upset by the use of bran, and to suffer with gas distention and other symptoms.

Some people require smooth, soft diets and cannot tolerate roughage. Persons with irritable bowels should eat no coarse foods containing fiber, skins, seeds or gristle. They must avoid salads with celery, tomatoes, cucumbers and pineapple; they must avoid green vegetables, raisins, berries and jams containing many seeds. If they suffer unduly with gas, they must eliminate from their diets beans, cabbage, onions, green or red peppers, melons, cucumbers and peanuts. Chewing gum is useful for cleansing the mouth and exercising the jaws, but some people swallow air with the saliva and suffer later with gas distention.

Among the items suggested by Dr. Alvarez for soft diet are a breakfast including orange juice, or cranberry coffee, if desired, in moderation, or else chocolate, cocoa or tea; eggs with ham or bacon, avoiding the tough parts of the bacon; bread or toast with butter, and any smooth mush. Graham bread is permitted, but not coarse, whole-wheat bread.

For lunch or dinner, he suggests fruit cocktails, avoiding the fiber of the fruit, broths, cream soups and chowder, and meat, fish or chicken, avoiding the fibrous parts and the gristle. Smoked fish, pork, crab and lobster are delicate experiments, and had better be left alone. Oysters may be tried occasionally.

Such vegetables as rice, potatoes, sweet potatoes, steamed tomatoes, well-cooked cauliflower tips, asparagus tips and others, freed from fiber, may be tried. Salads may contain tender lettuce with apples or bananas, tomato jelly, or boiled eggs. Desserts may consist of simple puddings, custard, ice cream, gelatin, plain cake, and canned or stewed fruits, particularly pears and peaches.

In cases of constipation, stewed fruit is to be taken once or twice a day. Prunes are the most laxative of fruits and may be eaten every morning. They should be cooked slowly until they become quite soft and the skin, if tough, should be discarded.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—The hunky speakable of the Broadway belt are rapidly taking the places of the old bar-rooms at gatherings places of those groups allied with the world of amusement.

But such places are no longer treats for the male alone. Now, even the seclusion of his pet bar is constantly invaded by the once gentle sex.

Just off Columbus Circle is a blinding emporium where gather the odds and ends or Tin Pan Alley. Here, just before 11 o'clock, gather the young fellows who thump the piano and write the words for those bits of harmonies that either find their way into the best sellers or die unborn.

Here is a little room fronted by a long bar, wherein hope springs eternal after the fourth round of beer. Catering to the wants of his customers, the innkeeper has provided a ratty-bang piano so that his guests may feel right at home.

Each day there comes some high spirited soul from the hotel, and he has achieved the season's success. He will seat himself at the piano and inflict upon the gathered throng an opus born over-night. Over and over he will play it for the newcomers, and although he asks their opinion he seldom is willing to take it, unless it happens to be favorable.

None protests since most of them have done the same thing, or will live to do it.

The other day a couple of young women came in for refreshments and were immediately pressed into service for a try-out of the song.

"Ya see," the composer confided, "it's a woe for a girl act and I want to see how it sounds when you put it over. So hoist another one and gimme your best."

And so it went. People coming and going and enthusiastic chatter, and then in to "hoist one" and then to bang out their song. Most of them seemed hopelessly bad. But, such is the camaraderie of the speakable, that few tell their true thoughts.

In years gone there were several bars scattered at important points where actors met and drank and told stories. The more affluent actors now forego the in excess clubs where bars are none too carefully concealed, while the lesser figures have an assortment of speakables.

Before the "ladies" arrive there is often complaint concerning the pictorial invasion of an ancient male province. Nothing, apparently, can be done about it.

Within the past week I have kept an eye upon a cellar place just around the corner from my Village parrot. I have seen parties of from three to six women enter unescorted and exit, some time later, in hilarious mood.

It does seem to me that feminine drunkenness increases yearly and that the habit of women drinking alone or in groups is becoming a commonplace. Perhaps it is less common elsewhere, but in New York such things are treated as casually as though the woman were smoking a cigarette.

Two Floors of Good Things to Wear

The PENNY PRINCESS

COPYRIGHT 1927 BY NEA Service BY Anne Austin

BEGIN HERE TODAY
VERA CAMERON, private secretary in the Peach Bloom Cosmetics Co., shares an apartment with her attractive aunt, FLORA CARTWRIGHT, who finds it difficult to realize that this flighty, sensible and efficient creature who has never had a real sweetheart is her niece.

On the way to the office, Vera takes a frank inventory of herself to learn why people find her so unattractive. Her nose is classic, her mouth is adorable, but on the other hand, there are her heavily rimmed glasses a freckle-mapped complexion and her plain and sensible clothes.

At the office where she expects to learn of her promotion to the place of secretary to the president, she finds another girl has been given the position. The president cheers her by the announcement of the new advertising manager, JERRY MACKLYN. With high hope she raps on the door of her new superior.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II
A lusty young baritone roared "Come in!" a summons which Vera Cameron, in spite of the strange new excitement which fluttered her usually well-controlled nerves, obeyed noiselessly as all good private secretaries should.

She had entered so noiselessly on her rubber-heeled oxford that Jerry Macklyn had not heard her, and for a moment she was too astonished to apprise him of her presence. A husky young man, coatless, and with his shirt sleeves rolled above the elbow, was hunched before a huge, flat-topped desk, which was completely covered with jars and bottles and powder boxes. Beneath his red hair, one tanned cheek testified that nature had given him a complexion to harmonize with that amazing hair of his, but the other was completely submerged under a thick coating of cold cream.

"I beg your pardon," Vera glimmered, making up her mind whether to laugh or to flee, leaving this astonished young man to this shameless rite of beautification.

"Oh, hello, hello!" Jerry Macklyn's eyebrows descended, his startlingly blue eyes, which had been seriously contemplating his image in a hand mirror, flooded with the light of a totally unembarrassed smile. "I'm Miss Cameron. Mr. Canfield assigned me to your department," Vera told him in cool, even tones—the impersonal voice which her favorite business women's magazine told her was the correct one for a private secretary to use toward her employer.

"Where are you?" The brilliant smile faded out of Jerry Macklyn's blue eyes as he took her in, noted the severe braids of her mousey brown hair, the unsmiling eyes behind horn-rimmed spectacles, the prim mouth, the austere black cloth suit, whose skirt chastely covered her legs.

Vera flushed with anger for the second time that day at being appraised and dismissed by an impertinent, hopeful male.

"Of course you are! Glad to have you, Miss—er—Cameron, isn't it?" Jerry Macklyn recovered his confusion by reaching into an open drawer of his desk for a towel, with which he began to rub his cold-creamed cheek vigorously. "Just getting acquainted with your line," he grinned at her.

"Sure a fancy layout, isn't it? Judas Priest! I didn't know you girls had to wade through all this truck before you were ready to make an appearance. Smells nice doesn't it?" he asked sociably, the tip of his short, broad nose wriggling as he sniffed the perfume about him.

"The perfume used in our cosmetics retails at eight dollars an ounce," Vera informed him.

"Gosh! That right?" Jerry Macklyn finished scrubbing at his cold-creamed cheek and attacked his rouged lips.

"A little of the cold cream rubbed into the lips will enable you to receive the rouage most effectively," Vera told him in even tones, which gave no hint of the desire to laugh which was almost upsetting her morale as a perfect private secretary.

"Thanks for the tip," Jerry grinned cordially, but his eyes were wary and shy, as if he had begun to realize that this impeccable young woman did not approve of him at all. His thick fore-finger dug into the opened cold cream jar, brought up a lump big enough to cleanse his entire face and neck. "Guess you know all the tricks eh?"

"I don't use lip rouge," Vera answered primly.

"Good thing for our business that all girls aren't like you," Jerry mumbled at her through the towel with which he was removing the last of cold cream tinted with lip rouge. "What I mean—" he added, as he noted the vivid flush of anger that swept over her pale, freckled face, "is that it's a good thing for us that a lot of girls need lip rouge."

He pushed back his chair, rose, rolled down his sleeves.

"Did I say I was glad to have you, Miss Cameron? We got a slew of work ahead of us. I asked for the cleverest girl in the outfit and they told me that was you. Now, if you'll transfer your belongings from Benham's department to mine, we'll get down to business. By the way, I wish you'd bring me all the pamphlets and other descriptive matter you can lay your hands on. And a sales report showing the relative popularity of the different articles we put out, as well as a chart showing the relative profit. I've got to dope out a big national advertising campaign in double quick time. And you're going to help me understand you know this business from A to Z."

While Vera was carrying out his instructions swiftly and accurately, she revised her first amused and contemptuous opinion of him. He was nobody's fool, and she sensed in his vital young body and the alert mind that gleamed through his brilliant blue eyes a capacity for work that more than matched her own. She would have to hustle to keep up with him, and that knowledge made his step buoyantly and swiftly.

When she returned to his office he was standing before the exhibit of Peach Bloom cosmetics which he had accumulated on his desk, his flaming head cocked to one side, hands thrust deep into his pockets a quizzical calculating gleam in his blue eyes.

"Pretty things, aren't they?" he challenged her. "These black and gold bottles and jars and boxes, with that single spray of peach blossoms are the nicest things in the cosmetics line I've ever seen. Makes a girl feel pretty luxurious to dig a hunk of cold cream out of this, doesn't it?" He lifted a black, squat round jar and turned it admiringly in his big hands.

"Dull gold to, a gold band around the bottom, and that embossed spray of peach blossoms that look so real you want to pick 'em off and smell 'em. Ought to photograph like a million dollars, huh?"

"Here is a complete list of our products Mr. Macklyn, with the comparative charts you asked for," Vera told him.

"Pretty names," he mused, as his bright eyes traveled down the list. "Peach Bloom Powder, in Blond, Brunet, Titian and Hazel shades—hazel—hazel! Guess that's your shade, isn't it, Miss Cameron? I'd take Titian, I suppose," his boyish laugh rang out. "If you hadn't interrupted me, caught me in the act of beautifying myself, I'd have tried it out. They've got the whole bag of tricks haven't they—skin food, bleach, cleansing cream, hand lotion—what's this—Star Lash?"

"That is a mascara. It comes in both liquid and cake form, in four shades, blond, Titian, brown and black. It is used to make the lashes look longer and thicker," Vera elucidated primly.

"Judas Priest! No wonder you girls are so irresistible. Tell you what, Miss Cameron, you write me a confidential report on our products, giving me the absolute low-down on 'em, from personal experience, I mean, and I promise nobody else will ever see it. Compare 'em with other brands. I like to know the truth about a line I'm writing copy for, so I can steer clear of the rocks, if there are any. And while you're doing it, I'll cast my eagle eye over these booklets and the descriptive stuff they wrap around the jars. Got to get acquainted with the stuff right away."

Vera sat for a long time before her typewriter, her hands lying idle in mind whether to laugh or to flee, leaving this astonished young man to this shameless rite of beautification.

"That's absolutely all I know about Peach Bloom Cosmetics from personal experience," she said crisply. Jerry Macklyn picked up the sheet of paper, read its few lines at a glance, then surveyed Vera Cameron coolly and critically from the crowning braids of her head to the broad toes of her flat-heeled, orthopedic oxfords.

"So you have never used any cosmetics powder, cleansing cream and face powder," he said slowly. "Him-m! Now how the devil am I going to know whether this truck is any good or not? Good Lord, I can't really try it out on myself as I usually do a product I'm planning a campaign for!" He frowned, looked at her flushed face searchingly, then a wide grin stretched his boyish mouth.

"I say, Miss Cameron, I've got a whale of an idea. You're my assistant, aren't you? Not just my secretary, but my assistant?"

"So Mr. Canfield said," Vera answered, her voice trembling with anger. She was going to hate this impudent young red head.

"Now, listen, Miss Cameron. Bend an attentive ear—oh, gosh! you can't! I mean, you can't bend an ear!" he grinned at her, his blue eyes sparkling with wicked glee, "your ears are held down too tightly that crown of yours. Say, I haven't seen a hairdresser like that since my sainted aunt went to her reward. Wait a minute! I apologize! Can't have you sore at me already! Say, this is my proposition. If this stuff—" he waved toward the fascinating array of black and gold boxes and jars—"is one-tenth as good as Peach Bloom claims it is, then I can dope out the best doggone advertising campaign that ever hit this old town in the eye. With you!" he concluded triumphantly, pointing a fore-finger at her with dramatic suddenness.

"I shall be glad to help," Vera admitted eagerly.

"Help Why, you're going to be the star of his scenario, young woman!" Jerry Macklyn exclaimed. "You know what I'm going to do? I'm going to play Pygmalion to you. Galatea! Make a beauty out of you with Peach Bloom cosmetics, photograph you at every stage in the transformation and use the whole bunch of photos in a smashing series of national advertising layouts that will simply knock 'em for a goal! You just wait—"

But Vera Cameron did not wait. With blazing cheeks aflame she glared at him for one devastating moment, then turned and fled.

STATE MOTORISTS PAY LITTLE HEED TO LICENSE LAWS

Thousands of Automobiles
Carry 1926 Plates, or Else
None at All

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin motorists have an "alarming disregard for law" according to the State Highway Commission which reports that thousands of motorists have failed to buy their 1927 auto licenses.

The commission has decided to remedy the evil by checking up on the motorists who failed to renew their license plates for 1927 because a large portion of the money available to the commission for maintenance and construction of highways is derived from the revenue receivable through the operation of the auto license fee law.

State highway department employees working throughout Wisconsin have assumed the unofficial role of license inspectors for the state department with its consent. They inform that department of specific cases where owners of automobiles have neglected to purchase 1927 licenses and are still operating their cars this year with 1926 license plates and in several cases without any license plates.

The commission has ordered its secretary to urge all highways department employees in the nine engineering divisions of the department to report the numbers of all cars bearing 1926 license plates to the commission at Madison daily.

Highway department employees have reported on an average of better than 50 cars per day, owners of which were violating the law.

The state department has expressed its pleasure over the spirit of cooperation by the commission, declaring that just so many more automobile license inspectors have been added to the state department force at no additional cost to the state.

VARIED AMUSEMENTS

AT NORTHEAST FAIR

Next week commencing on Tuesday, August 30 and continuing through Friday, September 2, the Northeastern Wisconsin fair will be in progress at the Fox River Driving Park situated between Green Bay and De Pere. Entry day is set for Monday, August 23, but the entertainment program will not commence until 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The fair in 1927 is striving to present a program of entertainment of the highest caliber obtainable so as to justify people coming miles to witness it. The list of free acts to be presented each afternoon and night sounds like a three ring circus. Included among the acts are "Esaw's Elephants," hugh dancing pachyderms, "Cardinellas," a direct importation from France in series of acrobatics, "The Valesca Ballet" a beautifully costumed dance presentation, "Dainty Ethel Marine" fashion plate of the air in gymnastic and sensational feats of daring, "Autos That Pass in the Air," a hazardous death defying mid-air auto sensation, "Della Brothers" knockabout comedy clowns.

The racing program of harness events on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday will be for purses of $350 each plus added money, a total of $3150 plus added money. Entries for each class are more than filled and the one-half mile track is in excellent condition to assure fast racing. On Friday there will be automobile races by professional drivers under the auspices of J. Alex Sloan, world famous promoter of automobile racing.

On each night of the fair, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the sensation of 1927, the World Amusement Service Corporation, will present in conjunction with the free acts, "Our Nation's Glory," a gorgeous combination of circus, pageant and stage. 75 people comprise the cast which will present famous historical scenes with beautiful stage settings.

JENNINGS TO ATTEND

INDIANA CONFERENCE

A special meeting of the board of directors of the United States chamber of commerce and all councilors, said to be the most important of the year outside of the annual meeting of the national chamber, will be held in West Baden, Ind., from Oct. 15 to 18, according to word received by Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton chamber. Local secretaries are invited but Mr. Corbett is uncertain whether he will go. Elmer H. Jennings is the Appleton councillor and he probably will attend.

The meeting will be called for the purpose of completing plans to carry out the activities program of the chamber.

Only one address is on the regular program, a talk by L. E. Pierson, national chamber president, on "The Responsibility of the Business Man to his Government." Matters which will be given the most consideration by the chamber members are the federal reserve conference, the business men's agricultural commission, flood control on the Mississippi river, relation of government to public utilities, trade relations, commercial forestry, merchant marine, federal taxation, postal rates, state and local legislation, get out the vote, policies of the national chamber in the past five years, appointment of committee of the national chamber to consider the reports

FAMOUS PREACHER TO GIVE ADDRESS HERE

Methodist's Skylark, the famous lecture on Bishop William A. Quayle, poet preacher of the Methodist church, will be given by Dr. Merton S. Rice, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist church of Detroit, Mich., Thursday evening Sept. 8 during the annual meeting of the Wisconsin conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here.

The Itinerants' club, consisting of all active preachers in the conference, will hold the annual club banquet at 5:30 Tuesday evening at Hotel Northern. Dr. Roy L. Smith, pastor of the Minneapolis, Minn., will give a talk on "Some Wild Notions I Have Known." The conference will extend from Sept. 6 to 12.

PLAN FOR CONCERT AT CHURCH MEETING

Many Artists to Appear on Program During Conference of Methodist Preachers

Plans for the concert to be given Friday evening, Sept. 9, during the annual meeting of the Wisconsin conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at the First Methodist church here were made at a meeting of the general conference committee Monday evening at the church. The chorus choir of the church; the quartet consisting of Carl McKee, baritone, George Nixon, tenor, Mrs. Marion Hutchinson MacCreedy, soprano, and Miss Dora Elin, contralto; and the Fullinwider trio, including Prof. Percy Fullinwider, violinist, Mrs. Fullinwider, pianist, and Joseph Zickler, cellist, will appear in the concert. Prof. John Ross Frampton will be organist.

This will be the first time in the history of the Wisconsin conference of the church that the annual meeting has been held in the same city two consecutive years. The conference came here last year and preachers and the Ministers' Wives' association presented a joint petition to the bishop asking that it return here another year. One of the chief reasons for Appleton being a desirable place was the housing accommodation at the Lawrence college dormitories. It was said. Last year Russell Saxe and Ormsby halls were used and this year it will be necessary to open Brokaw hall as well. About 200 more delegates are expected this year because of the lay electoral conference to be held here at the same time. Each church will send a lay delegate as well as its minister. Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of the Appleton church, and Dr. Richard Evans, district superintendent of the church, will be local hosts to the conference.

Car owners alone are deciding the battle for rubber supremacy

THRU all the stages of price wars—mail-order lures and "bargain" tires—climaxed by the reclaimed rubber epidemic that has required but a year to prove itself the most expensive experiment tire buyers have had to stand—the quality tire comes out on top.

General Tire makes biggest sales gain in the industry

And what a gain it has been—never taking new car equipment contracts, never supplying mail-order-houses or turning out secondary lines for big volume records, but depending solely on the personal preference of car owners purchasing tires through dealers—General gains 40% more sales in dollars and cents, for the first half of this year.

In all the history of the tire business never such a popular swing to one make of tire.

What a tribute of public confidence has been paid to General's policy of never tampering with quality.

Seasoned contemporaries started placing the sales limit for General's top quality when it reached five millions—again at ten—again at twenty millions.

But today with General's gain far ahead of the industry we have the spectacle of tire buyers the country over swinging more and more to quality and further and further away from fictitious values.

Quality is setting the pace for volume.

DAIRYMEN PLANNING TRIP THROUGH STATE

About 55 Farmers Are Expected to Tour Through Rich Dairy Section

One of two buses carrying dairymen who will make a four day tour into the northwestern part of the state is likely to pass through Appleton, according to word received at the office of Robert Amundson, Outagamie-co agent.

No one from this county is expected to make the tour with the dairymen, Mr. Amundson said.

The tour is to be taken by dairy farmers from the east central section of the state. About 55 men are expected to make the trip, which starts Sept. 13 and will be completed Sept. 16.

The buses will start from Green Lake and Oshkosh and the first stop will be made at Wisconsin Rapids where Ralph Peterson has promised a real welcome by his county breed associations and a half day will be spent looking into some of the dairy farms and cooperative dairy organizations. From Peterson's dairy, the men will go to Rogan's headquarters at Wausau, where the Marathon County Breeders' Association will stage an evening's entertainment. The next morning, Wednesday, will be spent in looking over the dairy sections in Marathon-co. Harry Knipfel will provide a lunch for the tourists at noon and some time will be spent in Clark-co that afternoon. It is planned to head through to Chippewa Falls Thursday morning and visit at the Northern Wisconsin state fair. Heading south, from there, stops will be made in Eau Claire and Monroe-cos.

MUSKELLUNGE CAUGHT IN LAKE WINNEBAGO

Harold J. Berro of Menasha, a resident of Appleton for several years, has the honor of catching the first muskellunge ever pulled from the waters of Lake Winnebago, according to reports of fishermen on the lake shores.

Berro hauled in a musky weighing 21½ pounds Monday near the mouth of the Fox river near Menasha. The fish was caught on a June bug spinner and a black sucker minnow while Berro was trolling and was landed only after a hard struggle.

Because of the fact that no musky has ever been hauled from the lake, Appleton fishermen were inclined to be skeptical until they viewed the fish. There are no scales near the mouth or on the gills of the fish, said to be a chief method of identifying the musky from a nickle or pike, and its teeth are "sore", another characteristic of a musky at this time of the year. The fish is on exhibition at the Valley Sporting Goods and Appliance Company at 211 N. Appleton-st.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C.
Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION:—I am a mother of forty years of age. My hearing is gradually leaving me. I have consulted my doctor and put myself under his care with no results. My two children aged 12 and 14 years also have defective hearing. The doctor removed their tonsils thinking that would benefit them. This was done a year ago. I can't see any improvement so have decided to try Chiropractic Adjustments from you. I would like your advice, whether or not Chiropractic benefits cases of this kind.—R. H. S.

ANSWER: Now let us examine Chiropractic in the light of the best scientific minds of the world. We say that man comes in contact with the outer world through a medium of the five special senses; man hears, sees, tastes, feels and smells and for the purpose of registering certain vibrations he has developed ears, eyes, touch, taste and olfactory bulbs.

The organs of special senses are simply instruments that register certain vibrations. Scientists have discovered that these vibrations move in waves. To hear three things are necessary: First a sound wave, or vibration of a certain character; second, an apparatus to register and transmit the wave (ear and auditory nerve); and third, an intelligence to interpret the vibration. Hearing may be defined as interpretation by Innate Intelligence of a vibration registered by the ear and transmitted over the nerves to the brain. Chiropractic teaches that when a man is deaf and no inquiry has occurred to the hearing apparatus, it is because something has interfered with the transmission from the ear to the brain; and that the character of the interference is, usually an abnormal condition of the auditory nerve, induced by the malposition or misplaced vertebrae in the spine. Therefore, you should consult a competent Chiropractor and have the cause of this interference adjusted, and normal hearing will be the result.

The Appleton Post-Crescent Offers a Booklet On One Thousand Useful Books.

There is no more important problem for the parents of growing children than the supervision of their reading.

Books for children are difficult to choose. Child standards must be remembered and it is not easy for a grown person to get a child's point of view.

The little ones should be given only books by the great child-loving and child-understanding authors which hold true to the standards which govern gold literature and good art.

There are many books that come under the above classification. The best of them are listed in "One Thousand Useful Books" a booklet which this Bureau has for distribution. Included are books for children under eight, books for boys and girls from eight to twelve, and books for older children.

Enclose four cents in stamps for return postage and handling.

LET CHILD CHOOSE HIS VOCATION

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

PFTER all the talking there has been about education and vocations it seems to me that quite as many parents are on the wrong track about their children's future as ever.

That children are to go to college seem to agree is a desirable thing. But that children are to go to college because beyond college are definite things they wish to "do" is quite another matter. They cannot seem to mix the two ideas.

"John wants to be a farmer," says John Smith, Sr. "I had to put my foot down on that road and hard. What does he think I've been working for all these years? John's going to have a college education and have a chance I never had."

Doesn't young John's father know that his son's idea of farming is the very reason he should go to college? Not because he has a vague idea that young John is to have one of those hazy things known as a "chance." What chance? He doesn't know himself. He is sending away to different colleges and universities for catalogs, and is asking around among his friends which college they think is "best."

Why not send John to a university that has a good course in agriculture and educate John's desire to do a certain thing?

Too many parents think that boys and girls don't know their own minds when they say they would like to do this thing or that. I know a boy who wanted to be a musician. He talked constantly of being an orchestra leader. The father, hard-headed and practical put him to a university for a course of business training. Later he went into a bank. He thought the boy's talk mere prattle.

That boy is saving every penny he can and studying music at night. Some day he may be a great musician. In this case the boy's determination rose above the father's mistake and the wasted years.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Milk and butter that they had of course made all the wee folks glad. They gathered 'round the campfire where the beans were cooking well. They watched the water bubble high, and Clowdy shortly shouted, "My, most everything we've got looks good. This surely will be swell."

Their interest now was much increased. "Where shall we have our dandy feast?" asked Clowdy as he looked around to find the proper spot. "We cannot eat upon the ground, 'cause that's were lots of ants are found. They'd get upon our food and spoil our meal, as like as not."

"I know a place," one Goofy said. And then he pointed straight ahead. "That great big rock will serve us well. It's big and round and flat." The others looked the big rock over and then they heard wee Carpy roar, "That's sure a fine suggestion. There's no better place than that."

By this time, all the beans were done, and all the bunch had heaps of fun just watching Cope, take them from the blaze and serve them 'round. For plates they found some dandy shells, and in a moment, mid loud yells, the whole bunch gathered 'round the rock and squatted on the ground.

Such food they'd never had before. At first they wished that there was more, but as they ate, they soon filled up, as stuffed as they could be. The corn was spread with butter thick. You'd think 'twould almost make them sick. But, gee, it never bothered them, like it would you and me.

In half an hour the meal was done. Wee Clowdy said, "I guess I'll run around so I can soon digest my food, and feel good. He jumped up to his feet and then he almost fell right down again. Said he, "I'll have to rest instead." The whole crowd knew he would.

Rich Colors Worn By Society Women As Summer Wanes
Shoes Grow As Gay As Gayest Beach Frock; V-Neck Back

BY BETSY SCHUYLER

NEW YORK — Vibrant hues, sponsored by smart resorters at Newport and Southampton these days, are fully as arresting as the sports events that give verve to the last weeks at these gay places. Pastel shades are completely out of the picture. As the last rays of sunshine are often the brightest, so the costumes for the last month of summer seem to favor vivid colors.

TAILORED CHIFFON
Last week-end at the invitation tournament at Southampton where Tilden distinguished himself, as usual, the colors were positively riotous. I think Mrs. James H. Snowden sponsored perhaps the most appealing print I saw. It was a tailored version of a quaint chiffon print in wisteria, yellow and black shades. Its fitted yoke dipped to a V both front and back and its blouse ended in a snugly swathed hip-band that also fitted to perfection. A circular flare directly in front and directly in back gave a new note to the style. Triple bows of self-matching material stiffened the lined. With it she wore a medium sized wisteria Milan hat, with a smashing bow or ribbon across its brim.

Her shoes deserved a word of mention. There were of glazed print, in shades like the dress, with inserts on the vamp and the tongue-like strap of wisteria kid. Over her arm she carried one of the soft tweed sports coats that are invaluable for their warmth and the way they persistently refuse to wrinkle.

RED POLKA DOTS
Among the Newporters favoring red, Mrs. Richard Lonsberry really should be mentioned for a stunning little one-piece frock she wears of scarlet crepe de chine with tiny white polka dots. It is one of those frocks that defy detailed description. You just note its gorgeous color and texture and realize how stunning its wearer looks in it.

Yellow was worn becomingly by Mrs. E. Hayward Ferry the other day at the Casino. It was a one-piece model, with its whole left side blocked off into squares by fine cutout work. She matched the shade exactly in her hair hat, with its yellow velvet band.

HEYDAY FOR TUCKS
Unusual detailed work livens up new styles as much as color. Tucks and stitchings are in their heyday. Hardly a sports frock even appears without a yoke effect or some geometric design traced out by tucks or stitching.

Mrs. Jay Gould, with her daughters, Anne and Eleanor, typified both the flair of color and the concentration on detailed trimming in her daytime frock. It was of delectable character yellow-gold, and, more interesting, color and it had three different kinds of tucks to trim it.

A smart front panel was achieved by horizontal and vertical pin-tucks forming squares. The skirt was accented pleated from the sides back, while tiny tucks above the belt gave a richness.

SISTERS DRESS ALIKE
Her two daughters, Anne and Eleanor, dressed just alike—in the French manner of matching sisters frocks. Their boys de rose kasha coats had the smartest of smart yokes that dipped to panel front. Tucks matched the V effect of the back half way across the front and then pointed sharply in the back, extended yoke.

Their dresses were rose linen, with the hem, square yoke, and sleeves decorated by hand-stitching in double rows. Two rows of the stitching gave bolero effect above a matching rose kid belt. They wore plain black felt shoes, mushroom style and white sandals with bows de rose hosiery.

Shoes, incidentally, grow more interesting as the season advances. Tucked pumps in colored kid are quite popular while the Deauville sandal, with its snug ankle bands, seems to come in just about every color silks and jerseys can attain.

RECOMMENDS WOMAN FOR CARNEGIE MEDAL
Chicago.—(P)—For an act of heroism performed while swimming at Palm Beach, Mrs. Henry Riggs Rathbone, head of the Illinois branch of the American League of Pen Women, and wife of the Illinois congressman-at-large, have been recommended for a Carnegie medal.

She saved five-year old Joseph Morel of Palm Beach from drowning. Not an expert swimmer, Mrs. Rathbone was further handicapped by a strained arm, the result of a dive the day before.

PRODUCERS OF FILMS UNABLE TO FIND A SECOND MENJOU

BY DAN THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—For seven years Adolph Menjou tried to convince film producers that he should play the sophisticated hero roles which have made him famous throughout moviedom during the last three years.

But each plea met with the same response—nothing doing.

Then a genius saw Menjou, saw great possibilities in the sort of acting he wanted to do and cast him in a picture as such a character. The genius was Charlie Chaplin, and the picture was his "Woman of Paris."

HOW did Menjou acquire this suave sophistication?

"That's something I can't answer," says the actor. "Perhaps it was born in me. Again, it may have been the influence of my early life that helped."

"My father owned a hotel and I was with him from the time I was eight years old. He was a very busy man, and I had to do with my present acting. In fact, I never stopped to analyze my acting before. I always knew what I could best and that was all there was to it."

MENJOU really is too good an actor. He is so good that he doesn't get credit for his ability. He appears to be so much at ease on the screen that audiences are given the impression he is just being natural. The fact is that his characterizations are just the opposite from his real self.

Producers have tried on numerous occasions to groom men to imitate Menjou. And they have failed—just as they have failed to find a second Valentino, Fairbanks, Chaplin, Bow and Swanson. A great actor is a character in himself. He can't be duplicated.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PRESERVE TINY CUCUMBERS AND BEETS

BY SISTER MARY

NOW is an excellent time to put up pickles for winter use. The fruit cannings is experiencing a full and it's a bit early to can corn and tomatoes, while the tiny cucumbers are at their best for gherkins.

If you don't pickle beets ordinarily try it this year. As a plain pickle they are delicious and as a garnish they are an ever-present help. During the winter months when garnishes are not always at hand pickled beets add an appetizing bit of color. Cabbage salad gains much by snips of bright red, any salad masked with mayonnaise is made attractive by these same beets. A fancy shape or thin round slice adds a touch of color to a party "luncheon plate." And over and above all this most men "dote on" pickled beets.

PICKLED BEETS
Choose smooth beets. Wash carefully taking care not to break the skins. Cut off tops leaving about 2 inches of stems. Cook in boiling-water until tender. They should cook in about one and one-half hours. Drain and plunge at once into cold water. Slip off skins and cut in slices about 1/4 inch thick. Pack in sterilized jars. Four over hot vinegar—add 1 cup granulated sugar and 1 teaspoon salt to each quart of vinegar. Put vinegar, sugar and salt into preserving kettle or smooth, sauce pan and bring to the boiling point. Boil three minutes removing skum as it rises. Do not let the mixture boil more than three minutes. The vinegar must completely cover the beets and the jars filled to overflowing. Run a long slender knife or spatula down the side of each jar to be sure there are no air spaces.

CUCUMBER PICKLES
Tiny cucumber pickles are always good and are particularly nice for parties. Choose very small cucumbers of uniform size. One hundred small cucumbers, 3 quarts boiling water, 2 cups salt, 1 gallon vinegar, 4 sticks cinnamon, 1 cup white mustard seed, 4 tablespoons whole cloves, 1 tablespoon celery seed, lump of alum size of nutmeg, 1 cup brown sugar.

Wash cucumbers carefully without bruising and wipe dry. Dissolve salt in water and pour boiling hot over cucumbers. Cover with a cheesecloth and let stand for three days. Drain from brine and wipe dry. Dissolve alum in fresh cold water to cover cucumbers and let stand three hours. Drain off alum water and wipe cucumbers. Put vinegar, sugar and spices into preserving kettle. Bring to the boiling point and add cucumbers. Simmer ten minutes. Pack pickles in sterilized jars, pour over vinegar to cover and seal.

A very sharp vinegar should be weakened with water. However, unless the vinegar is "home-made" there is little danger of an oversharpening vinegar.

COLD SLICED CUCUMBERS
Fifty 2 to 4-inch cucumbers, half their bulk in onions about the size of an English walnut, 1 cup olive oil, 1/2 cup white mustard seed, 2 tablespoons celery seed, 3 stalks of horseradish root, vinegar.

Wash and wipe cucumbers. Peel onions. Put into a large crock and cover with a strong brine using about 1 1/2 cups salt. Let stand over night. In the morning drain and slice onions and cucumbers. Put a layer of each in a deep crock, sprinkle with celery seed, mustard seed and oil. Continue until all are used and put horseradish roots on top. Four over vinegar (cold) to cover, press down with a plate.

One hundred small cucumbers, 3 weight and keep in a cold dark place.

SAINT AND SINNER

It was Faith not Cherry who worried the night of the Pruitt dinner over the fact that "Midnight" Cherry's baby, was to be left in the care of Jim Lane.

"Now, Dad, remember you're not to dandle her if she cries," Faith cautioned him for the third time. "You go along," Jim Lane chuckled. "I was taking care of babies before you learned your A. B. C's. I've given you many a bottle, young lady."

Faith kissed him, her eyes sparkling with pleasure in the compliment, for compliments were rare from her father. And she did look extraordinarily handsome in the new navy-blue dress and hat; she knew it, and the knowledge put diamonds in her eyes and a shimmer of color in her usually pale cheeks. But — not so pretty as Cherry? Of course not! Jim Lane chuckled. "You go along," Jim Lane chuckled. "I was taking care of babies before you learned your A. B. C's. "I had been in bad condition for three months. I could not do my work. One day I read what your medicine had done and just had a feeling that it would help me, so I sent and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had only taken half a bottle when I got up and started to do my work. It gave me an appetite, and helped me wonderfully. I can not praise this medicine highly enough. I surely will advise all women and girls to take it, and they don't have to use rouge to look healthy. My two daughters are taking it now and one is also using the Sanative Wash. I am willing to have you use this medicine and I will answer all letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. HARVEY TUCKER, R. R. No. 3, Shelbyville, Indiana.

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little book you gave away and began to take the medicine. I ate the first few bottles I received and felt better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You have a letter for every word is true. I will answer all letters sent to me."—Mrs. JESSIE BULLMAN, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is: WHEN UNABLE TO TAKE TWO FINESSES, SELECT THE ONE MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED.

South Declarer; Contract Spades. The cards played to the first trick were: West led King of Clubs; North played Ace of Clubs; East Deuce of Clubs; South Ten of Clubs.

My answer ship names the four cards that should be played to the second trick as follows: North should lead Deuce of Diamonds; East play Five of Diamonds; South Queen of Diamonds; West Four of Diamonds.

The reason for the above are: From the view point of the Closed Hand finesses are desirable in both trumps and Diamonds. The desirability of exhausting the adverse trumps would be an argument in favor of selecting the Spades for the finesses; but with only one Spade in Dummy and a total of seven in Declarer's two hands.

MILL MANAGER ATTENDS CONSERVATION MEETING

S. D. Switzer, manager of the Wabeno mill, represented the G. W. Jones Lumber company at the meeting of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers' association at Green Bay Tuesday. Members of the newly appointed Wisconsin Conservation commission were present at the meeting.

Reports to the effect that the state is establishing a number of well equipped fire ranger stations were heard. It was said that the northern woods have been divided into eleven rangers a view of the territory within a 40 mile radius. Men are stationed at these towers during the time of the year when fires are apt to occur. There is also telephone service between stations so that when fires do start the equipment at the various central stations may be brought into play. Equipment at the disposal of fire fighters consists of trucks, portable water tanks, shovels, axes and back fire torches.

The establishment of a game refuge on the Fox river between Green Bay and De Pere would be a good thing in the opinion of Elmer S. Hall, director of the new commission and formerly mayor of Green Bay. He said that in all probability the commission would be authorized to establish a refuge if a petition with sufficient signatures was presented to the commission.

TOWNSVOLLEYBALLERS IN
SOFTBALL LEAGUE
LEAD AT KAUKAUNAClever Work of Catcher Helps
Team Win Over Postals, 9 to 8

Kaukauna—The Volleyballers continued in the lead in the Kaukauna Soft Ball league when it won an exciting 9 to 8 game from the Postals Tuesday evening at the municipal playgrounds.

A disputed decision in the sixth round nearly caused the Postals to forfeit to the Sports. In this inning Engholts, the first man up for the Volleyballers, hit safely and stole a base as Dix was batting at home plate. Leo Nagan, the Postal manager, maintained that Dix was putting his foot over home plate and he walked from third base to home to explain his argument to the umpire. During this time Engholts stole third and came home. The Postals were in favor of forfeiting but the argument was settled when Engholts was ordered back to third base.

Neither team scored in the first inning but the Sports brought home two in the second while the Postals were doing nothing. Four runs were scored on three hits in the third by the government men but the Volleyballers went right back into the lead with an additional 2 runs. Neither team scored in the fourth.

In the fifth each scored once and the Postals got two more in the sixth. The Volleyballers tied the court at 7 to 7 in this inning. Engholts, first man up for the Sports in the seventh inning, hit safely. Dix fled out. Ryan hit scoring Engholts and then stole home with the second run on a wild pitch. St. Mitchell fled out and C. Roebau walked. Ashauer went out at first.

Nagan, the first man up for the Postals, hit a clean drive through the infield. Anderson and Treptow repeated, leading the bases. Carnot scored Nagan. Anderson was caught at home on a hit by Schrubbing and Treptow was caught at home on a hit by Kiffe. Mills fled out to end the game.

Score by innings:
Volleyballers.....0 2 3 0 1 1 2-9
Postals.....0 0 4 0 1 2 1-8

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Moose are making elaborate arrangements for the big Moose picnic to be held at La Follette park on Sunday and Monday, Sept. 4 and 5. APPLETON NINE HOST TO MILWAUKEE CHAMPS OVER WEEKEND

Don's A. C. Squad, Which Took 12 Games And Lost One, Here For Two Tilts

Cream City Major AA Titlists Called "Team With Remarkable Records"

While the Appleton ball club of the Fox River Valley league is idle this weekend as far as league games are concerned it will be far from idle in every sense of the word. Saturday and Sunday will find the team in action against the best amateur crew in Milwaukee, the Don's A. C. and Tuesday, after a day of rest, it will encounter the first girls baseball team to show here for several years, the Ranger Bloomer girls.

Proof that the locals will have little easy picking in the Saturday and Sunday tilts, especially if the hurlers are not working well, is shown by a glance at the record of the Cream City crew. The Don's had the fine record of 12 games and only 1 defeat in 13 games called by Milwaukee newspaper men "a remarkable record for Major AA baseball." The record gave the Don's the championship of all Milwaukee sandlotters and they led their closest league rival by two full games.

The Don's won their final battle by a 12-1 score. Joey Wozala, Don hurler, held one of the five hits that game, while his mates smacked the rival hurler for 15 safeties. Tempin of Don's had four singles in five bats and Wozala proved to be more than just a pitcher with three hits, one a homer. Rohleder of the losers, leading pitcher of the major AA loop, went hitless in three innings.

The Don's are managed by Charley Stock, well-known to Valley fans as former loss of the class Stock Colts and a few years ago mentioned as a rival of Jack Telivelt as a candidate for manager of the Milwaukee Brewers. He will bring his team, about 25 loyal enthusiasts who follow the Don's all over when they play away, and pull hard for them to win. Several old admirers of Charley's from Neenah and Menasha also are expected to be here to plug for his team against Appleton.

The Don lineup has Tempin at first, Ehlers at second, Gryphon (captain) at shortstop, Steding at third, Boeck in right field, Hinz in center field, Larson in left field, Sassas utility, Abrams and Thompson catchers, Wozala and Borowak, pitchers.

The girls team lost a one-sided game at Green Bay Sunday but even at that pasted the offerings of Schuette and LaCrosse, who has returned from the west, hard. Several of the members earned hearty applause and were given a fine sendoff by Bay sport scribes. Here's a short shot from the Bay on their playing.

GENE STICKS TO OLD QUARTERS IN NEW YORK

Speculator, N. Y.—(P)—Gene Tunney expects to leave his training camp here for Chicago near the end of the month, and he will travel either by automobile or train. The exact date of the champion's departure is uncertain, but he doesn't intend to desert the mountain country until the latest possible date.

Asked if he had considered the trip to Chicago by airplane, the means by which he reached Philadelphia last year, Tunney said there was no need for that.

"This fight isn't important enough," he added.

Billy Gibson, the champion's manager, tried to get Gene to leave here in a few days but that request was turned down flatly.

Tunney likes the mountain air with its pine tang. The champion never has liked to work before a crowd of Gene put on nine rounds of box-

DOC PRATT UPSETS MEDALIST IN MEET

Takes Measure of Pelkey, 1 Up on 19th; Play Many Club Title Matches

Featured by an upset defeat of H. H. Pelkey, medalist in the qualifying round, several matches were played this week in the championship and second flights of the club championship at Butte des Morts Country club. One match also was played in the battle for the junior title of the club.

In the championship flight for the club trophy, the most important award of the year, Dr. G. N. Pratt, furnished the upset beating Pelkey, 1 up, in a 19-hole battle. In other title flight matches D. W. Bergstrom, Jr., defeated Dr. W. E. O'Keefe, 3-2; H. E. Landgraf beat Peter Jung, 5-4; and George Gilbert whipped C. E. McKenny, 4-3. Last week Don Shepherd beat H. L. Davis. Three matches still to be played in the first round of the flight put S. H. Clineinst vs P. C. Wesco, Ken Dickinson vs E. C. Hilbert and R. M. McGowan vs J. J. Plank.

Second round pairings in the flight bring Pratt vs Bergstrom; Landgraf vs winner Clineinst-Wesco; Shepherd vs winner Dickinson-Hilbert; and Gilbert vs winner McGowan-Plank.

Dan Steinberg, Sr., advanced all the way to the third round in the second flight. He won his first round match from H. P. "Cub" Buck, 7-5, and then tripped Roy Marston, 21 in the second round. Marston had taken his opening match from A. C. Denny, who is out of the city, by default. In other first round matches of the flight G. H. Beckley, Sr., beat A. J. Hall, Leo Lindberg whipped Dr. E. Blecher and Harry Oaks stopped F. V. Heinemann, all last week.

The only other first round match yet unplayed, brings R. K. Wolter vs Lothar Graef. Arthur Wakeman beat W. H. Nelson 2 up on the 19th hole and he will clash with the winner of the other first round struggle in a second round match.

JUNIOR TITLE FINALS

The junior title is expected to be settled in a few days due to an accident to one entry. Bud Plank beat G. H. Beckley, Jr., in the opening match last week. He was to battle Dan Steinberg, Jr., who drew a first round bye in the semi-finals, but he broke an arm and as a result defaulted to Steinberg. George Baldwin beat Karl Schuetter in another first round match and he will play Jimmy McKenny in the semi-final.

Steinberg will meet the winner of the Baldwin-McKenny play for the club junior title for 1927.

60 STAR NETTERS TO ENTER VALLEY MEET AT OSHKOSH

Appleton Men May Try Luck in Valley Singles Against State's Best

Several Appleton tennis stars probably will enter the Fox River Valley singles tournament, which will be held Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 27 and 28 at the courts of the Oshkosh Tennis club, though they are given but little chance for victory due to the fine field of entry entered—60 of Wisconsin's best. The meet is the last big tournament for Badger State netters this year.

The tournament has grown in importance each year until it is now state-wide. The singles play in the valley was at first intended for players in the Fox river territory. However, the tennis was open in nature and later the annual event drew the best from different parts of the state.

In 1926 the big Milwaukee invasion occurred. Up until that time the valley players had the tournament to themselves. The Gottfredson brothers were temporary from Green Bay and they were there for years. Now the brothers have moved to Milwaukee and when they came to Oshkosh for tennis the best in Milwaukee followed along.

Good playing has always been a feature of the Fox river valley singles play. In 1925 the tournament was won by Keith Werner of Eau Claire, an Amherst college star. He defeated Roy Gottfredson in the finals. In the semi-finals match of the 1925 tournament the Gottfredson brothers were forced to meet each other.

In 1926 Roy Gottfredson won the singles title. That tournament was filled with surprises and many of the seeded players and favorites to win were dropped in the early rounds. The brothers were placed in the same bracket and both came through to face each other in the finals. The finals match was a blood battle and "Hank" failed to chop his way through Roy's strong service and lost in straight sets.

It has become the custom for Oshkosh to sponsor the valley singles and doubles tennis club of Neenah and Menasha to hold the doubles event each year. The doubles play was taken from valley players at Neenah this year when two Milwaukee veterans, Harold Amos and Louis Reichgott, took the trophy.

Milwaukee will come to Oshkosh for the valley singles in force this year, according to leaders in the sport at that city. Harold Amos, the state closed champion, will be among the stars in the tourney and it is believed that he may quietly work his way into the finals play. "Buddy" Schommer will probably come back to the valley singles to upset some of the old veterans. The invitation announcements were sent to all old entries this week and the pairing will be drawn Thursday. The tournament is sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis association.

BROKEN DOWN PUGS EARN MOVIE MONEY

Cauliflowered Ears, Battered Noses at Premium Out in Hollywood

Hollywood, Calif.—Young men, there are great opportunities ahead of you in the fight racket.

A busted back, scalloped lips, cauliflowered ears? Test-tet. That's too bad.

But just a minute. Even if you're a ham in the fight racket, just a common or garden variety of palooka, you still have a chance of coping Lady Fortune's mitt.

It seems that several casting directors in Hollywood, tiring of the color-ad or sheik type of movie heroes, looked around for something more masculine in American facial scenery.

Then it was that battered maps were at a premium. A good example of cauliflowered ears, which did not, strangely, affect the Gotham produce market, began Pacific coastward.

Pugs of the type of Gunboat Smith, Jack Renault, Tom Kennedy, George Godfrey, Frankie Burns and Kid Broad—men who, because of the inroads of time or recurring defeats, found their earning power lessening, answered the call.

Hollywood became their mecca. Did the idea get over? Well, now—Jack Renault is making more under the Kleigs today than he ever did under the same lights, and he's over the highest of good-time, ring canyons.

Gunboat Smith was all washed up when the movie money hit him a welcome poke in the pocketbook. The same goes for Godfrey, Burns, Broad, Kennedy, Jack and Joe Herffick. Jimmy Kilgannon and the other second-raters.

The movies are a new and welcome life preserver that heretofore the boys had never counted on. The racket is: Go out, pull on a pair of mitts, try your shot at your division. If you flop, go drag your battered cars and your busted noses to this cinder. The user you are—the more dough you'll make.

SCHLAFFERS POUND SIX HURLERS FOR 21 RUNS

The Schlaffer Hardware Co. baseball team remained its batting eye with a vengeance Sunday and spanked the offerings of six Combined Locks hurlers for 21 scores. The only type of hit the Hardwaremen failed to get was a homerun, but doubles and triples were as common as singles.

J. Delfasse starred in the field making several catches that saved runs at critical moments. F. Laabs with four hits in five bats, R. Marx with three in four and Ed Holmsworth three in five were the bat leaders. Marx played a good game behind the bat. F. Laabs got 15 strike outs.

Next Sunday the Schlaffers play at Denmark and they are confident of adding another win to their list.

108 PERSONS FORM LUCKY FRONT LINE

Just That Many Seats in First Spectator's Row for Title Battle

Chicago—(P)—One hundred and eight distinguished individuals will that form the select inner square about the ringside at the Dempsey-Tunney championship fight in Soldier Field next month.

There are just 108 seats in the first spectators row and those who get them will be distinguished for that, if for no other reason.

The mysterious committee of five which has the task of determining who gets those choice seats is to meet Friday and undertake its job. George F. Getz, nominal promoter of the classic for Tex Rickard made known Wednesday.

Getz gave his "personal assurance" that there would be "no funny business" in the distribution of the choice seats. Meanwhile the ordinary fight fans formed long lines before the windows at the Palmer house to buy tickets "sight unseen" with the assurance only that their seats would be somewhere inside the stadium.

Rain or shine, Dempsey planned a hard workout Wednesday. A dreary drizzle Tuesday restricted his activities to three miles of jogging on the "treadmill," a mechanical walker Wednesday, however, road work, shadow boxing and several rounds with the punching bags were on his program to loosen him up after a ten-day lay-off, enroute to the camp from Los Angeles.

RAIN HALTS MARCH OF HELEN TOWARD TITLE

New York—(P)—The march of Helen Wills toward the National Women's tennis championship has been halted two days. The singles finals, originally scheduled for Saturday will be carried over until next Monday.

A steady drizzle continued throughout Tuesday afternoon forcing a postponement of all matches at Forest Hills.

JONES MEDALIST IN NATIONAL OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Bobby Finishes With Great 67 to Take Honors; Sixty Qualifies

Minneapolis, Minn.—(P)—Stripped of all superlative players, 32 survivors of the qualifying rounds were paired off Wednesday for match play in competition for the National Amateur Golf championship at Minikahda club.

At the top of the draw stood George Von Elm of Los Angeles in the first match to defend his title, having gained admission to hole competition by virtue of a hard earned 154, just two strokes inside the limit of 156 at which eleven golfers tied for the last seven places.

At the bottom of the lower bracket was Bobby Jones but he was there through a performance that equaled the record of 142 for medal play in the event. Two years ago Clark Corkran of Philadelphia made the like score and three years ago Dexter Cummings scored 133 at Lochmoor club, Detroit, in the western meet.

JONES HAS 67

Jones stood out head and shoulders above the qualifiers after his record round of 31-36-67 Tuesday but Wednesday faced the possibility that a momentary slump on his part might meet the best game of an untitled player in the 18-hole matches and cast him further chance to redeem the title he lost to Von Elm last year.

His first match is with Maurice McCarthy of New York. The final medal round was hectic toward the close, for up to late afternoon, Chick Evans had stood in the Martin of Los Angeles, Arthur Yates of Rochester and Art Sweet of Chicago.

Along came Jimmie Johnson of the home club with a 71 and took the lead by five strokes but he had not reached the final green before word spread that Bobby Jones was burning up the course with a marvelous 31 on the last nine. The British open champion could not maintain this pace on the homeward run, but he took one stroke off par there with a 36 to set a new course record from the back tees in competition and take a lead that could not be overcome.

Later Phillips Finlay of New York claimed third place with 177 and Eugene Homans with a 77 tied for fourth with Clarke Cockran of Philadelphia at 148.

SIXTY PLAYS OULMET

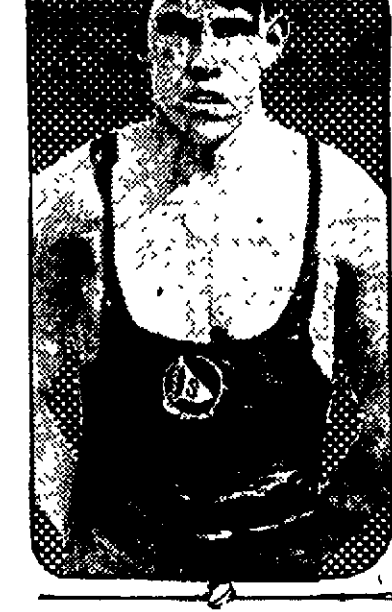

Billy Sixty, Milwaukee, who qualified with a 153 was scheduled to play Francis Oulmet, Boston, Wednesday. Oulmet tied with Don Caruck, Canadian champion, with 151.

Tuesday's card included Phil A. Sanborn, Madison, 41-48 73-154. Billy Sixty, Milwaukee, 35-37 73-153. Buddy Suxley, Milwaukee, 36-41-77-157.

Al Foss, Milwaukee, 42-44-56-164. George Dawson, Milwaukee, 41-41-57-165.

MANY TEXAS LOOP YOUNGSTERS LOOK READY FOR MAJORS

At Least 15 Players of the League Probable Big Timers Next Season

Houston, Tex.—Fifteen young players, approximately, are making bids for major league berth under the backing suns of Texas this season.

It is doubtful whether any of the youngsters are going to create as much of a noise in the majors next season as Willis Hudlin, of Cleveland, did this year, but they're deserving of attention.

Houston, owned by the St. Louis Cards, has Eddie Hock, who was turned down by Pittsburgh once, ready to step into the majors. Fred Frankhouse, a pitcher who has won around 20 games this season, and Wally Roettger and Ernie Orsatti, outfielders, are also likely to make the grade next spring.

Waco has Randy Moore, who was with the White Sox at the opening of the season, and Max West, an outfielder tried out by the Yankees, on the market.

Johnny Mann, Wichita Falls' shortstop, seems the best bet in the circuit to advance. He has been the sensation of the league this year.

There are others worth looking over, all of whom should be up in another season for the majors. This list includes: Richardson, Fort Worth infielder; Taylor, Shreveport outfielder; Wacker and Morse, with Dallas and Waco, with San Antonio.

PIPGRAS WAS SLOW IN CINCHING REGULAR JOB

New York—After five years as a "farm hand," George Pipgras has landed a regular job with the New York Yankees.

His work this season, although he has not pitched as often as one might expect, leads to the belief that he will be one of the best hurlers on the Yankee roster next year. Perhaps in the long run.

Pipgras came to the Yankees five years ago and has been whisked until this one. Inability to control his fast ball and "saucer" was the main reason Pipgras was shooed away, but that's all in his past now as he continues to turn in victories for the Yankees.

CARDINALS MOVE UP TO THREE GAMES FROM CUBS

By pounding out a 13-3 victory over Philadelphia Tuesday, Bob O'Farrell's St. Louis Cardinals moved to within three games of the National League leading Chicago Cubs. It was the only game played in the major leagues the two other contents of the schedule being rained out.

In the National League Chicago and Pittsburgh play double headers, the Cubs meeting the Phillies and the Pirates tackling the Braves. A double defeat for the Cubs and a brace of wins for the Pirates will put the Pittsburgh's to within one-half game of the top. A twin defeat for Pittsburgh will put the St. Louis Cardinals in second place by one-half game.

St. Louis starts its next series against the Giants in New York. McGraw's club, five games out of first place, must carry the series if it is to retrieve ground lost earlier in the season. The Giants have won 19 out of their last 25 games.

APPLETON CUBS WIN

Appleton Cubs baseball team took a ten-inning game Sunday from the Fourth Ward squad by a score of 9-5. The Cubs lineup was Burg, c. Priebe, p. Peetler, 1b: Buxton, 2b: Lonsdorf, 3b: Kipstein, ss: Burns, lf: Sprister, cf: Polzin, rf.

Ernst Gorman, Minneapolis, defeated Alfredo Imperial, San Francisco (6). Mike Mandell, St. Paul, knocked out Jack Hayes, Chicago (5).

Giants Expect Cantwell To Be Duplicate Of Moore

BY BILLY EVANS

The New York Giants recently purchased Pitcher Ben Cantwell of the Jacksonville, Fla. club of the South-eastern League. It is rumored the Giants passed over 25,000 simoleons for his services.

Thereby hangs an interesting tale that involves Pitcher Wilcy Moore of the New York Yankees.

In many respects, Moore has been the hurling sensation of the American League. Last season he won 30 games while losing only four in the South Atlantic League, yet not one major league scout who looked the big fellow over recommended his purchase.

No doubt the fact that Moore was 30 years old and had been in the minors for a number of years caused the scouts to sigh and say of him. Eustace Manager Ed Barrows of the Yankees bought Moore, simply because he believed any pitcher able to win 30 ball games in any old league must have a pretty good assortment of stuff.

It was a fortunate purchase for New York. The big rookie has been the balance wheel of the Yankee pitching staff. His remarkable ability as a relief pitcher has enabled Manager Huggins to rotate his regulars in turn and keep them on edge.

This year as the wild card carried four stories relative to the pitching of Ben Cantwell. I made it a point to inquire of a number of scouts as to their opinion of the big right-hander. No one of them liked his chances to make the grade in the minors.

"He's just a good bush league pitcher who hasn't enough stuff to deliver in the big show," was the consensus of perhaps a dozen famous scouts with whom I talked.

Recalling the career of Wilcy Moore, I began to look up the dope on Cantwell. I found that he had been the leading pitcher of the Florida State League in 1926, winning 24 games while losing only five. His pitching enabled Sanford to win the pennant in both halves of the season.

It surprised me that such a performance didn't cause some big league club to look him over at least, and if not ready, to send him out on option.

Yet the only prospect that Cantwell made as the result of these 24 victories was from Sanford in the Florida State League to Jacksonville in the Southeastern.

Joining Jacksonville, Cantwell continued where he had left off as a member of the Sanford club. Starting the campaign with 11 straight wins, his record when the New York Giants decided to gamble on him, was 23 wins in 24 starts.

I am told that the report of the scouts on Cantwell was much the same as that of Moore.

"He's no youngster and has just ordinary stuff," they said.

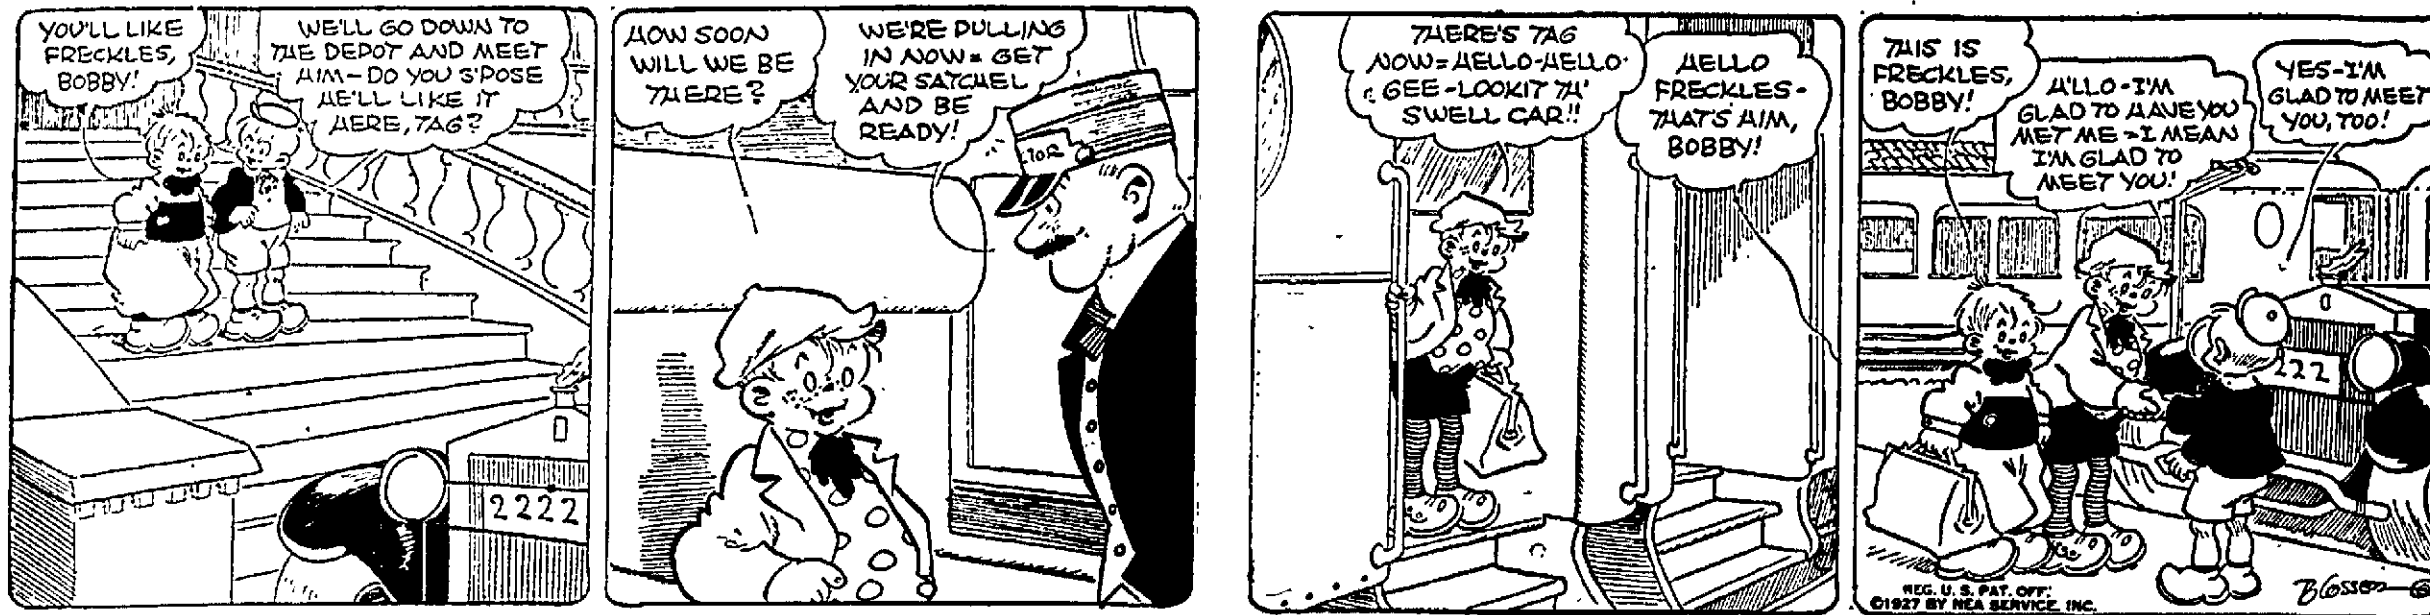

Cantwell, by the way, is 25 or nearly five years younger than Wilcy Moore. He is a right-hander, a tittle over six feet tall and weighs about 170 pounds. He first gained fame as a college pitcher in southern circles. His professional experience has been limited to three years.

JACK LOCKWILL IN THE WOODS

Not until he was quite near the animal did the boy perceive that it was not Garibaldi. It was a wild bear! The creature was tearing a rotten stump to pieces, and eating the grubs and borers to be found in the decaying wood. "Holy smoke!" whispered Jack, turning to flee. Then his hair seemed to stand on his head, for he was confronted by a second bear, not twenty feet away!

Jack's heart missed several beats. For some moments, he appeared to be paralyzed. Presently, however, he saw that the second bear wore a collar.

"Now this one is Garibaldi!" exclaimed the dazed boy. The bear that wore the collar made a whining sound and came toward him, sniffing the air.

Involuntarily, Jack stepped aside. Garibaldi passed him and made for the bear that was tearing the rotten stump to pieces. Apparently it was his purpose to join the wild bear in its rather frugal lunch of grubs and borers. But it wasn't at all welcome. To the contrary, it was given a hostile reception. Snarling and growling, the bears lunged at each other, fighting mad.

"GORGEOUS FIGHT" IN PROSPECT FOR G. O. P. CONVENTION

"Dark Horse" Favored to Win Nomination Over Hoover or Dawes

Washington—Excepting Dawes, Hoover and Hughes, a study of the strength of the announced or unannounced candidates for the Republican presidential nomination reveals reasons why they can't be nominated rather than why they might.

For purposes of such an analysis, it is to be assumed that President Coolidge will not be an important factor at the next Republican national convention.

With Coolidge out, there is an excellent prospect of a gorgeous cat-and-dog fight between the aspirants, with a wealth of favorite sons, dark horses and deals. The party is too well controlled to permit of any such spectacle as the Democrats stumbled into at New York in 1924, but there may be a real deadlock which will have to be settled in 1929 "by a little game of men in a smoky, stuffy, locked room."

FAVOR DARK HORSE
It is silly to predict what will happen in the many months preceding the convention, but previous experience leads one to suspect that the ultimate winner probably won't be the fellow whose boom is being whopped up the loudest at this time and who may enter the convention with the most delegates.

It seems likely, for instance, that Hoover will enter the arena with more delegates than Dawes, but from that time on the prospect of a swing to Dawes probably would be very real. Amid the hazy conjecture now possible, it seems reasonable to suggest that Hoover will be one of those caught in any deadlock that develops. The deadlock might break in favor of Dawes or Hoover or someone not now seriously considered if Hoover couldn't put it over for himself.

But it seems at this time impossible that it could break toward Longworth, Borah or Norris, whose names are mentioned now as "possibilities."

"PROTEST" CANDIDATE
Lowden is the farmers' "protest" candidate if he has an understanding with Dawes. He was long ago suggested, he may be able to do a splendid job in rounding up the delegations from agricultural states for delivery at the convention. The main point, however, is that to date Lowden has shown no strength in the east or anywhere else except in predominantly agricultural states.

Longworth comes from Ohio, the "mother of presidents" in recent decades, and he has a strong personal following among members of the House. Many of the congressmen have been boosting his stock for a long time and they will continue to do so with renewed vigor. But despite his conservatism, it is doubtful whether the powers that be in the party regard him as solid enough for the job. Probably his worst handicap is his reputation as a thorough-going wet.

There is no indication yet that the Republican party is likely to name a candidate unsatisfactory to the organized dry.

BORAH IS "OUT"
Borah has even less of a chance than Lowden or Longworth. Although he is personally as popular as anyone in the field, the party regulars will not allow him to get away if they can help it. He is not a party man. Some sort of a Borah-for-president movement may be started by the senator's admirers, but it is even doubtful whether Borah would ever signify his approval of it.

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska has some enthusiastic support from the party's extreme progressive wing, but that wing is so ineffectual that he must be placed at the foot of the current "possibility" list. Norris has inherited the LaFollette following as much as anyone could inherit it, but he has not set up shop as a leader and probably would refuse a third ticket nomination if it were tendered to him.

DRUNK FINED $14.20 IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Edward Albrecht, 607 N. Superior-st., Wednesday paid a fine of $14.20 for drunkenness after pleading guilty before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court. Albrecht was arrested by Captain V. J. Vaughn and Officer Carl Radtke at 140 Wednesday morning after a complaint had been received at the station that a man in an intoxicated condition was causing a disturbance on E. Hancock-st.

Guesswork Eliminated In Testing Of Brakes

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Heretofore, the matter of brake adjustment has been a question of try and test. The brakes, being only on the two rear wheels, required mere tightening and a run on the road to test their efficiency.

But four brakes on a car now need perfect adjustment and equalization that has taxed the ingenuity of engineers. The equipment has to remain equalized to a reliable degree. Testing four brakes on the road, by the mere judgment of the driver, can no longer be relied on.

So engineers have designed various meters and put the cars on the dynamometer block, so that they may adjust each brake to its calculated efficiency, and so that all four may be equalized to work as a unit.

But the human factor, which is more or less fallible, could hardly be excluded from this work, and occasionally a car has come through improperly adjusted.

NO GUESSWORK
Now a new type of machinery is being used in various automobile plants, by which the human factor is almost entirely eliminated. There is no more guesswork on the part of the men doing this work, for the adjustment of brakes is left to the machine itself.

This apparatus consists of a set of corrugated metal rollers driven by an electric motor, for each wheel of the car. Thus the automobile is made to run, by the power of the rollers, on four sets of these rollers. They are in fact, individual dynamometers, the rollers revolving the wheels of the car.

As the brakes are gradually applied, the friction created between the brake drum and the brake lining on each wheel is weighed by a set of scale beams. This pressure is measured in pounds and is shown on a dial connected with each set of rollers.

The exact brake pressure for front and rear wheels is known, so that the brakes need a little adjustment either way, while the operator is guided accurately by the dial on the scale.

While the brakes are adjusted through these machines in the matter of resistance, they are equalized under the same pressure of the brake pedal.

BARN IS DESTROYED BY FIRE AT MENASHA

Horses Are Saved by Volunteers; One Vehicle Is Damaged

Fire Tuesday evening destroyed the barn on the farm of George Peebles, near Stephenville. The flames were discovered at about 7:30, shortly after members of the family returned to the home after attending the evening's choral in the barn. Spontaneous combustion, it is believed, started the fire, as the entire hay mow was ablaze when the flames were discovered.

Neighbors, summoned by telephone, prevented the spread of the fire to a chicken coop and pump house. All hay and grain stored in the building was destroyed. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Mr. Peebles announced his intention of rebuilding in the near future.

While rescuing his horses from the barn, Gus Fenske injured his elbow by getting crowded between two of the frightened animals. Wednesday morning he submitted to an X-ray picture which revealed that one of the smaller bones was fractured. Floyd Fenske, a son of Mr. Fenske, burned his hand quite painfully during the fire.

RABBITS ARE INCLUDED IN DISPLAY AT ARMORY

Rabbits will be included in the displays at the poultry show of the Fox River Poultry and Pet Stock association at Armory 'G' this winter. It was decided at a meeting of the association Tuesday night at George Loos' harness shop on Appleton-st.

About 150 to 200 rabbits of various kinds will be collected from the county and Appleton. The show will be held Jan. 10-16, 1928.

All types of poultry birds will be displayed at the affair. The meeting was attended by each of the 12 members of the association.

ANTIGO COUPLE HELD FOR ABANDONING CHILD

Roy and Margaret Rosio, Antigo, were arrested Tuesday at Seymour by Police Chief J. N. Decker, at request of Antigo authorities who alleged that the couple abandoned a 14-month-old child, which they left in the care of an Antigo resident. The two are employed by a carnival company.

They were to appear in court at Antigo Aug. 29, for abandonment, but as an Antigo physician, Dr. Murphy, has expressed willingness to adopt the child, and Mr. and Mrs. Rosio have declared themselves ready to surrender their rights as parents, it is probable that the charges will be withdrawn.

NIC SIMON RETURNS TO HOME IN CHICAGO

Questioning of Nic Simon Jr., a former officer of the now bankrupt N. Simon Cheese company, in the case of William J. Decker, versus the cheese company, was completed Tuesday afternoon and Simon returned to his home in Chicago. The Lemke's are attempting to get a judgment of $35,000 against the cheese company for stock which the deceased purchased. They claim fraud in the sale and hope to share in the assets of the bankrupt company if they can prove that the shares were bought by Mr. Simon through misrepresentation.

Attorneys for the estate were attempting to prove, through testimony of Simon, that the shares were purchased after they had been misrepresented. Following the questioning of Mr. Simon the case was adjourned and the attorneys are to file briefs with Judge Edgar V. Werner, of circuit court, who is hearing the case.

SIDEWALK LOWERED TO LEVEL OF CURB

A street department crew is at work this week completing the improvement of S. Mason-st., which was paved this summer and recently opened for traffic. The men now are engaged in lowering the sidewalk on the east side of the street from the viaduct to W. Spencer-st. The sidewalk in some places is three feet above the curb. It is being lowered to a point about six inches above the curb.

As soon as the sidewalk has been completed the men will start building the retaining wall on the east side of the sidewalk along the viaduct to a point 152 feet north. This retaining wall is necessary to keep back the silt from the hillside on the east. During heavy storms the water washes silt and mud from this hill over the sidewalk and road, it is expected that the work there will be finished in about three or four weeks. Both jobs are being done under the direction of L. M. Schindler, city engineer.

SLOT MACHINE OWNER FINED $50 BY JUDGE

Leading guilty to a charge of operating a slot machine, J. T. Jacobs, proprietor of a soft drink parlor at Kimberly, was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court late Tuesday afternoon. Jacobs was arrested by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke, Tuesday afternoon, after a warrant had been issued for his arrest.

THOMAS WALSH ORDERED TO PAY BACK ALIMONY

Thomas Walsh, for whom a warrant had been issued by Judge Edgar V. Werner of circuit court on a charge of contempt of court, appeared in court Wednesday morning. Walsh was charged with being $150 in arrears with his alimony. He claimed that he had been unable to pay alimony because he had a note of $900 which he had paid.

Walsh was ordered to pay $10 per week to Sheriff Otto Zuehlke until the deficit was made up. If he defaults a payment the sheriff is to lock him up.

High Prices On "Fags" Tell Who Won The War

BY MILTON BRONNER
Berlin—There are still foolish people who regret that the great war did not last longer, so that victorious allied troops might have marched into Germany and even paraded in triumph down Unter den Linden in Berlin. They still say the war did not come home to Germans. All of which is just sheer rot.

The Germans know they had a war all right. They are ever and eternally conscious of it. They know it by their small army. They know it by the reparations they have to pay. They know it by the tax burden. They know it by memories of bitter, near-starvation. They know it by business depression and unemployment figures.

And they don't say things that are pleasing to the ears of boastful, Englishmen.

PIERCE PARK PAVILION IS NEARLY COMPLETED

All construction work on the band pavilion in Pierce park has been completed and workmen are busy this week putting the finishing touches on the building. The paint crews are expected to complete their work within the next ten days when the pavilion will be ready for use. Construction was started early this spring by the Hegner Construction company, which had the contract, but many delays were caused by heavy rains. The cost of the pavilion is approximately $25,000.

The pavilion will be used for band concerts and indoor celebrations. The stage is to be equipped with a movable sounding board which will allow the band to play a concert to audiences either in or outside the pavilion. The framework for the sounding board has already been completed and installation of the board is now in progress.

After the carpenters and painters finish their work, the Chicago Landscape company, which had the contract for beautifying the park grounds will beautify the grounds in the vicinity of the pavilion.

WARDEN INVESTIGATES KILLING OF GAME BIRDS

Louis Jeske, game warden, was called to the marsh near Black Creek Wednesday morning when reports were brought to Appleton that chicken and game birds were being killed in that section. The game bird season does not open until late next month and there is a heavy penalty for shooting the birds out of season.

Young birds were recently placed in the marshes near Black Creek, according to H. L. Bowley, secretary-treasurer of the Outagamie County Fish and Game Association.

The reason given by several people for the early season shooting of the birds was that most of the residents in that locality are at the Seymour fair and hunters were taking advantage of their absence.

DUTCH COWS STILL WALK ON CARPETS

Zaandam, Holland—(AP)—Many quaint country traditions are passing in Holland with the widespread adoption of modern agricultural methods. But scrupulous cleanliness is not one of them. It is still literally true that many cow stables in Holland are carpeted.

The windmills which used to pump the water for much of the scrubbing that goes on are disappearing, however. A national society for the preservation of windmills recently sprang up to counteract the tendency of hard headed Dutchmen to allow their windmills to fall down for lack of repairs once they discovered that it was cheaper to use motors.

PRICES CONTINUE TO MARCH UPWARD

Numerous Stocks Show Gains—Oils and Few Specialties Fail to Make Headway

New York—(AP)—Prices were again on the upgrade at the opening of the stock market Wednesday. Baldwin opened with a block of 2,000 shares at 25 1/2, a new high record, up 2 1/2 from Tuesday's close. Point gains were made by United States Steel, 1 1/2; Maryland, Southern Railway and Crucible Steel, 1 1/2; and American Locomotive, 1 1/2.

And American travelers in Germany know it when they come to buy cigarettes, for instance. The German tax on imported tobacco is huge.

The result is that many well known firms have established factories in Germany. They are thereby enabled to sell their well known brands at prices something like those obtained in England and America. But the cigarettes don't taste the same. The tobacco seems to be different. The cigarette taste as if they had quinine in them.

HERE'S A SHOCK
Many an American traveler, having gone up against these made-in-Germany fags, spics a well-known and popular American cigarette in a shop in England and America. But the cigarettes don't taste the same. The tobacco seems to be different. The cigarette taste as if they had quinine in them.

"I'll have those! How much are they?" "Sixty marks and sixty pennings the package. How many will you take?"

Pay $1.65 for a 15-cent package of American cigarettes? The American backs out of the shop dazed. He knows now that the Germans had a war. He knows now that the Germans know they had a war.

And the German dealer, once more disappointed in a prospective customer, sadly puts the package back on the shelf where it lies to become dusty and fly-specked.

POSTPONE RECHNER'S TRIAL UNTIL AUG. 30

The trial of John Rechner, proprietor of Gil Myge soft drink parlor, 123 W. College-ave, for violating the prohibition act which was to have been held Tuesday afternoon in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg, was postponed until Aug. 30 because of the absence of the defendant's attorneys. The charge is preferred by E. T. Sullivan, state prohibition officer, who alleges that Rechner violated the prohibition law on July 21, 1927.

LUMBERMEN TOLD TO ACT AND NOT "TALK" SO MUCH

Pulp Association President Says Men Must Now Practice Conservation

Green Bay—(P)—"The quicker we turn from the campaign of conversation to one of conservation the better it will be for the people of Wisconsin," D. C. Everest, Rothschild, president of the American Paper and Pulp Association said Tuesday at a meeting of state lumbermen.

"The future of the pulp and paper industry and every other wood using industry in Wisconsin depends upon the rapidly with which we enter upon an active campaign of utilizing what we have at hand in the way of lands and knowledge for forest crop growth," said Mr. Everest. "We must show our good faith by practicing what we have advocated for many years."

"The pulp and paper industry in the state of Wisconsin today ranks fourth in the value of its products as against other industries and has steadily advanced in importance since 1880 when it occupied 18th place in relation to the 19 other industries. Today it is only exceeded by dairy products, motor vehicles and foundry and machine shop products, which makes it the most important industry in the state dependent on forest products for its continued life."

"The paper and pulp industry occupies a unique position inasmuch as it is the only major industry which has changed at least 90 per cent of its raw material within the last two generations. There are men in the industry today who recall the first general use of wood in the manufacture of paper. Paper was the principal source of material for years and today we manufacture probably less than 10 per cent of the total tonnage of papers produced in the United States from materials of that character. We have, however, several very fine plants in this state producing papers of excellent quality from rags, but even their source of supply of rags of a kind suitable for the manufacture of their grades is being limited by the use of cotton and linen garments.

But when you consider that at least 90 per cent of the tonnage of paper used in the United States is made from wood, or from old papers previously made from wood, you have some idea of the dependency of the pulp and paper industry on the continued supply of timber available for this purpose.

"Everyone is familiar with the forestry problem insofar as fire protection is concerned. Nothing can be more evident than the necessity of fire prevention and suppression. Taxation is the second important item in the forestry program and with the recent passing of the Forestry Amendment and the latter enactment of the forestry taxation measure, we have taken one of the most important steps toward a workable commercial forestry program."

"Within the state some pulp and paper concerns have either actually started forestry practice including the raising of nursery stock for planting or are now engaged in making surveys for that purpose."

"Another important factor in the development of substitution of species and new processes has been the forest products laboratory at Madison,

MANY LOCAL PEOPLE TO VISIT CHICAGO

A number of people from Appleton and the Fox river valley are expected to take advantage of the excursion to Chicago on the Chicago and North Western railroad over the weekend. Several special attractions, among them the annual world's championship rodeo at Soldier's field, and the White Sox-Washington baseball game are expected to prove the biggest drawing cards.

THREE CANDIDATES FOR POSITION OF AUDITOR

Three candidates for the civil service examination for junior auditor were present to take the tests Wednesday morning at the Appleton post-office. H. J. Franck, assistant postmaster, who has been away on a vacation, returned to have charge of the examination. His vacation will not end until later in the week.

The laboratory through the work of C. P. Winslow and John D. Rue has contributed much to the work of better utilization of what available timber we have, which is equally as important as growing more timber, furthermore their research work will apply to all future growth as well and may result in the available timber for pulp purposes being materially increased. This factor becomes instantly interesting to the lumberman, the settler, the farmer and all others who own timber and timber lots, the products of which may be sold to the pulp mill. The continuing use of jack pine and other small pine is assured and the use of hardwoods, not suitable for lumber production, is not outside the possibilities of the future."

INCOME FROM FARMS INCREASED IN 1926

Greater Value of Livestock and Livestock Products Shown in Report

Madison—(P)—The gross income on Wisconsin farms last year exceeded the income of 1925 by more than six per cent, the Wisconsin State Department of Agriculture has announced. The report however, showed a decrease of about 10 per cent in the income from cash crops, the gross increase being caused by a larger income from livestock and livestock products.

Milk brought almost $200,000,000 to the farmers of Wisconsin, an increase over the last two years. The sale of honey was less than in either 1924 or 1925.

Hogs, eggs, and poultry, cattle, calves and sheep and wool all showed an increase over 1924 although the sheep and wool income was less than in 1925.

Of the cash crops, potatoes, tobacco, clover seed, guano, and other small cash crops brought in smaller returns in 1926 than in the preceding year.

"The decrease in income from cash crops" according to the department of agriculture, is accounted for by the lower value of the 1926 crops of potatoes, tobacco, clover seed, and to some extent other marketed crops. The bulk of the decrease came in potatoes, which crop had a much lower value in 1926 than in 1925 in spite of a larger production.

"The increase in the value of livestock production is chiefly the result of a bigger income from the sale of cattle, hogs and poultry products, most of which brought somewhat better prices in 1926 than 1925, and in addition the amount of cattle, hogs and poultry marketed in 1926 showed an increase over 1925. A new high point in cattle shipments was reached last year when over 405,000 head were shipped to packers and stockyards in addition to record shipments for other purposes."

MAINTAINED NORMAL RIVER WATER LEVEL

Water power plants along the Fox river have not been affected by the drought during the last month and the height of the water is being maintained at the usual average according to information from the United States engineers office and the Green Bay, Mississippi Canal company. Though the lower river has experienced considerable drought in the past few weeks it is said that the upper regions of the river still are being fed by early season rains and that the height of the water in the lower river is regulated by the Menasha dam and has been normal during most of the summer.
